Roosevelt Meets Neptune
Supreme Court Says, Yes
Wealth Has Good Points
13 Spades, Redoubled

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

When President Roosevelt, crossing the equator for the first time, had to be reminded of his shortcomings, an ancient custom, somebody disguised as Neptune, king of the ocean, unable to think of any other defect, accused the President of "gross incompetency in his failure to carry Maine and Vermont." You can believe that the President seemed not at all annoyed by this accusation, reminding him of what happened recently.

The United States Supreme Court, by a vote of four to four, Justice Stone not voting because of illness, upholds New York state's employment insurance law, considered "radical" and attacked in New York state courts. If the character of Supreme Court justices were not so well known, you might wonder whether the recent election had some effect on the opinions of the high court.

Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, says the Republican party must get rid of domination by "concentrated wealth" before it can hope for power.

The Democratic party may help that "come-back" by doing away with concentrated wealth entirely. The present law which says that any piles of concentrated wealth held by corporations must be immediately distributed should reduce the concentrated wealth considerably.

And the complete elimination of "concentrated wealth" might not be entirely desirable. Mr. Gifford Pinchot, who has been a useful, sincere, hard-working public servant, has been able to devote his life largely to the public welfare because he happened to inherit considerable "concentrated wealth," gathered together by relatives long ago, when it was respectable in America to overcome poverty, if you had the ability to do that.

If you announced "the atom has been split and harnessed," that would interest a few. You describe a bridge hand at Princeton University and nearly everybody is interested, because nearly everybody wastes time playing bridge.

Edward G. Howe, sophomore, bid "grand slam in spades and redoubled, when the other side doubled him." He made the grand slam because he held all thirteen spades and could not avoid taking every trick. Nobody else held a trump. That happens once in a great many million hands, and is not important, when it does happen.

In Buenos Aires, the "People's Conference in Favor of Peace," organized by "women's rights" ladies of the Argentine and other Latin countries, held its first session. You will be grieved to learn that this peace conference started with a fight among the ladies. Fortunately the lady president had provided an electric bell so loud that when she rang it the ladies shouting at each other could hear nothing else.

To have peace you must have peaceful people. And women are often the most ardent supporters of war. One lady, looking at a painting of the Sabine women being carried off by force, expressed the strange belief that the Sabine women were "glad of it."

Before you change old habits of human beings you must change your human beings, and that takes time. Our prohibition experiment proved it.

Switzerland and Holland join the United States, England and France in a "money pact." Just what that "pact" is perhaps not even those that wrote it could tell you. For Uncle Sam the main thing is that, while nobody really knows anything about money, he will soon have ten thousand million dollars' worth of gold buried in a hole,

Closed Bank Will Pay $850,000

Depositors in the closed Central Trust Company of Cambridge were assured today of a "Christmas" liquidation payment amounting to $850,000, for the 20,000 claimants.

Announcement was made by State Commissioner of Banks and Banking Henry H. Pierce that Judge John C. Crosby of the Supreme Judicial Court had allowed the bank's petition authorizing additional borrowing from the R. F. C. and payment of the dividends.

Dividends will amount to ten per cent of original deposits for both the commercial and savings departments. Action will bring the total disbursed on accounts to 32 per cent for savings depositors and 50 per cent for commercial clients.

Payment is expected to be made on December 23.

TRIANGLE LOVE IN TRAILER BARED

Clementine Esther Fontaine of Detroit, Michigan, the "other woman," whom Frank Gordert admits is his common law wife, is held at Farmington, Ct. Her two-weeks-old child lived with her in the trailer in which Gordert, a jobless flier, and his legal wife, Mrs. Helen Gordert, also lived. Miss Fontaine's child is now at the St. Agnes Home, Hartford. (Story, Page 8.)

DUELIST WINS 2 BATTLES, WOUNDS ONE OPPONENT

TWO WOMEN LOSE LIVES IN FIRES

Freak fires cost the lives of two women today when their clothing became ignited at their homes in Brookline and Beacon Hill.

Miss Ruth Murphy, 33, of Kilsyth road, Brookline, was fatally burned as her clothes became ignited when lighting a cigarette, police said. She died within an hour of her removal to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

While attempting to light an oil heater, Miss Edith Cave, 39, of Joy street, Beacon Hill, suffered fatal injuries.

She died at Haymarket Relief Hospital after a valiant struggle for life.

She was discovered unconscious by Frank Shea of Saratoga street, East Boston, who called for aid.

Death of the Brookline woman occurred on the eve of an awaited visit from her sister, Mrs. Helen Reuter of New York, for a Thanksgiving reunion.

Miss Murphy had been living at Kilsyth road with her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Parent.

Dr. William Glazer, of Commonwealth Avenue, Brighton, administered emergency treatment to the woman before her removal to the hospital.

Snow Snarls Traffic, 5 Hurt

Four inches of snow today disrupted transportation in Greater Boston, tied up traffic, caused injuries to two Waltham firemen whose truck crashed into a pole on the way to a two-alarm fire and resulted in injuries to three others.

Falling heavily for four hours this morning, the snow ceased falling at noon and dwindled to occasional flurries.

Moving into action early, the state highway department had succeeded—with 60 snowplows—in making most of the state's highways passable.

The snowfall started shortly after six o'clock and was due to continue throughout the day and end early tonight.

STRIKE CUTS SHIPPING IN HALF HERE

Snowbound and strikebound, Boston Harbor faced a shipping paralysis today as 75 marine engineers and master pilots left their posts following strike orders from two national marine unions.

Similar activity in every port of the United States made the situation appear exceedingly serious, as the strike threatened to hit every sort of waterfront attache, from longshoremen to officers.

At 1 p. m. today Edward L. Rodgers, local president of the National Marine Engineers Benefit Association, called 36 engineers off nine ships tied up at Boston piers. These ships were:

Dorothy Luchenbach, Hampden, W. J. Stead, William Luchenbach, Transportation of Fall River, William Page, Arizonian, Cold Harbor and Mobile City.

From New York ame word that engineers of the local union had walked off the freighter Pierce,

Sarga was unhurt and triumphant.

The duels were fought in almost complete darkness, one immediately following the other, in a stubbly wheatfield ten miles from Budapest.

Alexander Movacs, a bank employe and the second opponent, got a ball in the arm from Sarga's rented muzzle-loader.

REBEL CHIEFS SPURN A. F. OF L. PEACE OFFER

TYPOS LEADER URGES LIFTING OF SUSPENSION

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 24 (INS)—American Federation of Labor peace overtures to the suspended unions of John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization, today met rebuff high in the C. I. O. officialdom.

Charles P. Howard, secretary of the C. I. O. and president of the International Typographical Union, said the rebel industrial unions would turn down the A. F. of L. offer to negotiate toward healing the breach in organized labor's ranks.

Howard said the only way to bring peace was to reinstate the rebels, and that when the Federation failed to do this, it destroyed hopes of settlement.

REBELS SUSPENDED

The Federation moves to settle labor's differences amicably accompanied an overwhelming vote to continue indefinitely suspension of the Lewis unions.

They were suspended by the A. F. of L. executive council on September 5, and the A. F. of L. convention here supported that action by a 21,679 to 2043 vote. At the same time, the convention provided that the executive council continue efforts to heal the breach.

GREEN'S PLEA

Adding to this, President William Green of the federation pleaded with the industrial union forces to come back into the A. F. of L. fold.

"I am sure," Green said, "that if we can sit around a conference table, we can settle this thing."

But Howard said that, by its action, the federation started on the "road to dissolution."

"The only way this thing can be setled," declared the C. I. O. secretary, "is for the A. F. of L. to lift suspension of the ten unions which have been disciplined by the executive council and now the Federation itself for affiliating with John L. Lewis.

"The action of the convention and the attitude of the executive council make it impossible to keep the breach in the labor movement from geting worse.

RAPS "PLATITUDES"

"This is not a question of personalities. The workers of this country are intelligent enough to decide for themselves whether it is reasonable, whether it is logical for the executive council to suspend ten international unions, deprive them of the opportunity to register their voice and vote at the convention, and then sound from the convention platform high-sounding platitudes about being ready to make any sacrifice in the cause of the unity and peace."

Green and other A. F. of L. officers appeared cheerful over the results of the vote, in which the old guard, craft union A. F. of L. forces swept down a vigorous minority fighting for reinstatement of the Lewis unions.

"If a minority wouldn't abide by a majority decision at the Atlantic City convention a year ago," declared Green in an impassioned speech just before the vote, "what assurance have we that they will abide by a majority decision here?

"I do not know what the future has in store for us."

Strangely enough, Major George L. Berry, President Roosevelt's Federal industrial coordinator and president of the printing pressmen, voted to support the A. F. of L. majority.

This, despite he has been here for two weeks almost daily giving out interviews in favor of the Lewis rebellion. He would not explain his vote.

J. J. DWYER GEORGE SMITH EDWARD DUNN CLERK J. H. SMITH

Important business of handing out bunches and bunches of SS-5 social security forms, to mailmen for distribution, got underway at an early hour in the federal building today, where this scene was taken. Smiling, despite the inclement weather outside, left to right, Mailmen J. J. Dwyer, George Smith, and Edward Dunn are shown receiving forms from Clerk J. H. Smith. Some 1600 mailmen were assigned to the task of delivering the forms to wage earners throughout Greater Boston today.

WAGE EARNERS HERE GET PENSION BLANKS

Out of Boston postoffices today went an army of 1600 mailmen carrying half a million Social Security registration blanks to business and industrial employes here.

More than 800,000 of the blank forms, to be filled out and returned before December 5, were on their way to wage earners and salaried workers throughout Massachusetts.

And the gray-clad letter carriers, who are acting as contact men for the social security board's Baltimore, Md., headquarters were engaged all over the United States in the gigantic task of distributing and collecting facts and figures concerning the names, ages, jobs, pay, sex, residence and employers of 26,000,000 potential beneficiaries of old age pensions to be paid from Uncle Sam's treasury.

The registration blanks which went out of postoffices here and elsewhere today were all of the form designated as SS-5.

One was on its way to you, if you are gainfully employed, full or part time, at a wage or salary, in store or office, factory or shop, labor gang or bank.

For your own sake, you should fill the 15-item questionnaire out truthfully.

The information given will be kept confidential by Social Security Board officials.

The form can be returned without your employer, your associates, or your family seeing it.

The printed directions will tell you how.

German Pacifist Wins Nobel Prize

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 24 (AP)—Carl Von Ossietzky, German pacifist, and Carlos Saavedra, Argentine foreign minister, were announced officially today as winners of Nobel peace prizes.

The prize for 1935 was awarded to Von Ossietzky, publicist, who was freed recently from a German prison and who had been mentioned frequently as a propable winner.

Saavedra Lamas, prominent in the League of Nations and recent president of the League assembly, received the award for 1936.

German Minister Salm declared a regret for the award to Von Ossietzky and asserted it "will create the embitterment of Germany."

"All leading circles," Dr. Salm said, "will consider it a demonstration against the third Reich."

A committee of the Storting, Norwegian parliament, selected the prize winners. The peace awards were the last in five categories from the Nobel fund.

That U. S. A. gold makes other countries respect our paper money. Why we should fuss about trying to lend strength to the paper money to other nations is not clear to some Americans, except on the theory that it is impossible for this country to mind its own business.

Mussolini's government, declining to comment on Madrid's complaint of "foreign submarines" attacking Loyalist Spanish ships, intimates that Italy will go far before allowing "the establishment of a Red republic in Spain." Mussolini does not want Stalin to straddle that Spanish peninsula, one foot in the Mediterranean, one in the Atlantic.

France O.K's Sweep To Save St. Pierre

St. Pierre, Miq., Nov. 24 (AP)—The French government today gave officials of St. Pierre and Miquelon, French island possession, authority to operate a sweepstakes to rescue it from financial collapse.

With trade practically at a standstill due to collapse of the fishing industry the relief load has added to the government's burden.

Twenty per cent of the receipts would accrue to the local governmen which would, in turn, split with French War veterans instrumental in obtaining the permit for the sweeps.

Kelly Calls Off Victory Banquet

Plans for a victory banquet in honor of Lieutenant-Governor-elect Francis E. Kelly were cancelled today at the request of Kelly.

In a letter to the banquet committee, Kelly suggested that those who might have gone to the banquet use the price of the ticket to feed needy families on Thanksgiving Day.

Uncle Sam to Help 'Young' Girl Hide Her Real Age

The ladies—bless 'em—always seem to be having their troubles about birthdays, what with inquisitive agencies cropping up every once in a while and wanting to know how many, and when, and all that.

And now it's the Social Security Board. And to date, exactly 4393 maidens in distress have written letters to the Boston Evening American asking if they can't still keep the number of candles on the birthday cake a secret.

They say as long as the boss thinks his secretary is a sweet young thing in her twenties, he's happy and she's happy and everybody's happy. But let him once catch on that she's in her thirties—

Well, the answer is that a woman still has some privileges, and keeping her age a secret from the boss is one of them.

But she can't, or shouldn't, try to hold out on Uncle Sam. After all, he won't tell the boss.

All the maidens in distress have to do is to fill in truthfuly the blank where it says "How old are you?" Don't bring the S.S.5 Form back to the office. Drop it in a mailbox. And the boss will never see it.

The same is true for married women who are holding jobs, for good and sufficient reasons, under their maiden names. They can tell Uncle Sam about it and he'll be mum. Just follow the same procedure—use the mail box.

Fugitive R. I. Police Head Found With Woman, Both Held

Providence, Nov. 24—John F. McKnight, suspended Warwick police inspector and chief witness in the trial of four men on gambling conspiracy indictments, who has been missing more than a week, was arrested here early today following a police raid in a Reynolds avenue apartment.

McKnight was charged with attack on a woman with a blackjack in connection with a larceny case before his suspension last October.

A 22-year-old blonde divorcee, according to police, was found in the apartment with McKnight and was taken in custody as a suspicious person.

McKnight and Henry J. Le Doux, deposed Warwick police chief, led the raid.

Defendants in the case are Cameron O'Connor, whose Warwick home was the alleged headquarters for a horse race pool in Rhode Island; John Rutter, Thomas Scanlon and Leonard Osterman.

BRITISH SPEED SUBMARINES TO SPAIN

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—The British admiralty announced late today the submarine depot ship, Cyclops, and eight submarines of the first flotilla were steaming from Malta for Spanish waters.

The Cyclops will relieve the Woolwich, depot ship for destroyers, at Alicante. However, the admiralty said it was "unlikely" the Cyclops' submarines would go as far as actual Spanish waters.

The cruiser Galatea will relieve the cruiser Arethusa at Mallorca and the third destroyer flotilla will relieve the first flotilla at various Spanish ports.

There were rumors at Malta that the battleship Barham was getting steam up for a trip to Spain. This was not confirmed by the admiralty.

At the same time, informed sources said an official communication from Spanish insurgents, assuring safe anchorage to British ships at Valencia, Alicante, Tarragona and Cartagena, was not satisfactory.

The note made no guarantee of safe anchorage at Barcelona, which the Spanish insurgents have threatened to bombard.

Ship Laden With Coal Held by Rebels

London, Nov. 24 (INS)—The Greek cargo ship Sylvia, laden with Polish coal for Barcelona, today was reported in a Reuter message from Athens to have been stopped by Spanish rebel war-ships and taken to Ceuta, Morocco.

(Editor's note. Lloyd's Register lists no Sylvia, but contains a Sylva, 4202 tons, of Piraeus.)

France to Protect Shipping Near Spain

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—The French government today instructed the naval ministry to "take appropriate measures" to protect French shipping in Spanish waters.

The order followed a decision against recognition of a proposed insurgent blockade of Barcelona.

Officials said France had not recognized the insurgents as belligerents and that, under maritime law a blockade need not be recognized unless it is effective. They maintained the insurgents lack the ships to make it so.

Employers Balk, Delay Security Act

Springfield, Nov. 24 (AP)—Complications appeared to be developing here today in the registration of employers and employes under the Social Security Act, due to failure of more than 2000 employers to file returns. This will mean consequent difficulty in obtaining the registration of their employes.

The root of the trouble was seen to be that the act "lacks teeth." Postmaster T. J. Ashe said fewer than 3000 of the 5300 SS-4 blanks sent to the employers have been returned, though Saturday was supposedly the deadline.

Rebels Shell Reds In Palace Hideout

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

Campamento, Suburban Madrid, Nov. 24—Under bleak, leaden skies, in rain and chilly wind, the battle for Madrid went forward today with its intensity only dampened by the absence of aviation, and countless fires throughout the city gave evidence that the Reds' relentless defense affords no possibility of sparing any building there where their centers of fire are placed.

Thus, today it became apparent that the Reds had stationed important batteries around the royal palace and machine gun posts within it, and consequently Gen. Francisco Franco's fire was directed to destroy them regardless of damage to the palace.

I witnessed shells entering the palace's left wing and smoke rising therefrom.

MANY FIRES RAGE

In the same way, along the whole panorama of Spain's capital rising before us in perfect perspective there appeared one fire after another as the White batteries sought out and struck at the Red artillery stationed at strategically-chosen locations without regard to the destruction which might be wrought by counter-fire.

An enormous fire is raging within and back of the Montana barracks. Another, equally large, is smoking behind the royal palace, and a third, of similar dimensions, can be seen in the vicinity of the Puerta Del Sol.

ADVANTAGE GREAT

Recognition of General Franco's government by Italy and Germany cannot result in any immediate change in the situation in the battle for Madrid, but it is felt it will prove of enormous advantage later.

There is no point of geographical contact to make possible Soviet action against the Italo-German bloc. The distance between the Soviet Union and Spain is too great for Soviet airplanes to make the trip directly, and if the Spanish white blockade is effective, it should cut off any further transport of arms to the Reds except through France, which has not yet abandoned its official policy of non-intervention.

Two Russian Tanks Captured by Rebels

With the Fascist Forces Outside Madrid, Nov. 23 (Delayed in Transmission), (AP)—Insurgent infantrymen captured two Russian tanks today when Socialist defenders attempted an attack on the Fascist-dominated Casa Del Campo park.

Pulling up within a few yards of an artillery battery, the tanks opened fire on the artillerymen with machine guns and a larger gun mounted in the turret.

A group of Moors behind a clump of trees sensed something was wrong and came running up behind the attackers. They tossed hand grenades underneath where the tanks' armor does not afford protection. Others ran to get cans of gasoline.

A soldier jumped out of one of the tanks.

"I am Spanish," he shouted. "All the rest are Russians."

The Moors promptly took him prisoner. Then they peppered the machines with rifle fire until the gasoline arrived. Dashing the inflammable fluid against the sides of the tanks, they set it afire. The blanket of flame trapped the occupants.

Arrest of British Ship Crew Charged

Madrid, Nov. 24—Charges that the crew of an unnamed British cargo vessel were arrested at Rosas, north of Barcelona, and taken to the Catalonian capital by Loyalist troops were made over the Seville radio today by General Queipo De-Llano, insurgent spokesman.

General DeLlano asserted the British seamen had taken shelter from a storm at Rosas.

Mexico Speeds Scrap Iron Buying for Spain

Mexico City, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Mexican War Department ordered its zone commanders today to buy up all scrap iron, indicating the Leftist government was speeding up its armed aid to the Spanish Socialist regime.

The iron is to be sent to Mexico City for use in the National Arms and Cartridge factories.

Ten freight car loads of small arms, ammunition and supplies are being loaded aboard the Spanish steamer Sil at Vera Cruz for transport to Valencia.

Rebel Airplane Bombs Destroy Food Convoy

Burgos, Spain, Nov. 24 (INS)—A Loyalist provision convoy on the Valencia highway — over which Americans are to be evacuated from Madrid tomorrow—was destroyed by Rebel airplane bombs, insurgents here stated today.

2 LOSE TO DOC; SHOOTS 1, HUGS OTHER

KISSES CLIMAX FIRST DUEL

Sarga had exchanged erratic fire with Aldar Hozmat, a bank manager. The bullets whistled harmlessly by.

GREAT BIG HUG WINDUP

Then Hozmat and Sarga, reconciled all of a sudden, embraced each other.

Just as the second encounter ended the Hungarian warning corresponding to "Chase it, the cops!" caused the opponents and their seconds to scatter.

Kovacs' injury was believed to be not serious. However, he left for suburban St. John's Hospital while seconds and attendants scurried back to Budapest.

Sarga, the mighty midget, rushed back to his 20-year-old blonde wife, Magda, who waited apprehensively in their little Budapest flat.

She leaped into his arms with a cry of joy and wept noisily and happily.

It was for the "honor of my wife and unborn baby" that Sarga challenged nine men. He accused them of slanderous gossip about his marriage to Magda, a Budapest belle.

BRING 'EM ON, DOC'S CRY

After the reunion, Sarga announced with satisfaction:

"Well, that's two of them. Now for seven more."

With a great burst of energy, he began telephoning to arrange seven prospective encounters, all with sabers.

He admitted there might be some delay in carrying them out, because the police were growing watchful.

Sixteen men, the Associated Press correspondent was the only American, witnessed the weird encounters in the wheat field at dusk.

The fight followed an afternoon devoted to dodging the police.

At first, three carloads of witnesses, with Sarga, passed through the forested "soul valley," where it was planned originally to hold the duels.

POLICE INFEST WOOD

There seemed to be police in the wood, however, so the procession proceeded to the village of Maria Remete.

The wheat field near the village seemed to be the logical place and the 16 left their cars just as the clock on St. Mary's Church, in the distance, struck five.

A physician opened his suitcase and scattered bandages over the wheat stubble.

The seconds gathered in two groups, one loading the pistols by the headlights of the autos.

They had to pour the powder into the muzzles with little funnels and tamp the balls down with tiny ramrods.

The other group paced off 15 meters.

SHOTS IN THE DARK

Sarga and Hozmat took off their coats and stepped to their positions. From ten yards away they were barely visible.

The chief second then made a little speech, required by dueling tradition.

"I warn you, gentlemen, you are about to violate the Hungarian law," he said. "I urge reconciliation."

A grunt from the direction of each duelist indicated no reconciliation was possible.

The leading second then counted three.

The pistols cracked almost in unison.

Sparks of black powder fell into the stubble. The opponents remained upright.

After a moment's hesitation, Sarga and Hozmat rushed to each other and embraced.

TURNIP ARMED PEASANTS

Conditions of the second duel were more severe. The contestants were to have exchanged three shots at varying distances.

At the first signal, only one pistol cracked.

Struck near the gun hand, Kovacs dropped his pistol and made a faint outcry. The doctors rushed forward.

Several peasants, carrying turnips, sauntered up and someone cried, "The police!"

Everybody scattered then.

Early in the day, Dr. Sarga had borrowed 50 pengoes (about $10) to rent two 14-inch pistols from a fencing school after a group of seconds had decided the first of his nine duels would be fought out that day.

The pistols, which are muzzle-loading and not very accurate, are especially designed for dueling. They are supposed to lend an element of sport to the encounter—so much that sometimes there is an element of danger to the spectators.

Both the time of the other encounters and the order in which the opponent will meet Sarga were kept secret to prevent police interference.

CHALLENGED NINE

The matches which Sarga brought on himself by challenging nine men whom he insists cast slurs at his wife and himself, were twice delayed. But his seconds assured him today three or four more might be fought later today.

Sarga, himself, was confident he would put up a good showing against his saber adversaries.

"I'm not as good at fencing as I was two years ago," he said, "but I'm still able to take care of myself."

His wife, the grand-daughter of a wealthy Hungarian banker who did not approve of her marriage, showed she had regained some of her flagging courage.

WIFE PROUD

Despite her condition—she expects to become a mother around Christmas time—she passed off queries concerning the possible fate of her dueling husband, saying:

"That's the risk and honor of being the wife of a Hungarian."

She smiled bravely and insisted there was no other course open for him, particularly after his opponents had inferred he married her for her money.

Harvard Register To Aid "Frosh"

Harvard freshmen, it seems, should know each other better.

With this aim in view, the first edition of the Harvard Red Book Register will make its appearance tomorrow at $1 the copy.

The Register, fruit of a plan long advocated by the Freshmen Confidential Guide, will contain the names and pictures of the Class of 1940.

Ordinarily the class Red Book is not published until May, but it was felt that this was too late to accomplish the desired function of serving as an aid to wider acquaintanceship among the members of the incoming class.

The size of a Harvard freshman class may be well understood by the 185 pages which go to make up the paper-covered booklet.

Waltham Watch Ends Layoffs

Better business conditions today brought good news to employes of the Waltham Watch Company with the announcement that there would be no layoffs this year because of seasonal dullness.

Dr. Franz (Me-Against-Nine) Sarga, Hungarian, fought his first two foes today in pistol duels at Budapest. He wounded one man. Here he is dancing with his wife shortly before the duel horror made world headlines.

"Snow Just White Blossoms"? Bah! Say Bostonians

Snow may be "just white blossoms" to romantic song writers, but to Bostonians it means traffic tieups, frozen noses and sloppy walking. This picturesque scene was taken on historic Boston Common today. Through snow-covered branches appears the steeple of Park Street Church. Few felt the desire to take advantage of the empty benches which, on another day, would be crowded.

Snow Snarls Traffic; 1 Dying, 2 Others Hurt

Elevated, was rushed to City Hospital with both hips fractured and a concussion of the brain. His name was placed on the danger list.

TRAFFIC SNARLED

Flaherty was taken to the hospital by Edward Fay, of 38 Dunreath street, Roxbury. Police said Fay told them he struck Flaherty because of poor visibility.

Dr. Henry H. Powers, 76, of Newton, retired president of the Bureau of University Travel, suffered a broken vertebrae at Church and Center streets, Newton, when two cars spun out of control and sent the car driven by Elis Sjolander, 39, of Belmont, over the curb, hitting Dr. Powers who was walking on the sidewalk.

At Newton hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list, his condition was called critical.

Other car in the collision was driven by Charles E. Mays, 34 of 6 Sutherland road, Newton, police said.

A skidding car also struck Joseph T. Evans, 26, of Weymouth, as he was putting gasoline in his car at Quincy. His leg was broken.

Hills converted to skiing slipperiness in Dorchester and Brighton had police of those divisions pressed to keep traffic into the city moving and prevent accidents.

Motorists were especially endangered in two sections of Dorchester and one in Brighton.

Speeding along Prospect to a two-alarm fire in Waltham, two firemen were thrown off their fire truck and injured when the truck skidded into a telephone pole.

The injured firemen, treated at Waltham Hospital, were Charles Holmburg, of Vernon street, with a fractured arm, and Harry B. Sheldon, also of Vernon street, with back injuries. Both were of Hose 4 truck.

They were en route to a fire at 100 Orange street, where two families were driven to the street by a roof fire. Mrs. May Buckley carried her two children, Paul, 8, and Edna, 4, out of their home in her arms.

Mrs. Edith Haines, 87, who lived in the other part of the duplex house, had to be taken out of her home by Mrs. Agnes McAleer, who lives with her.

Damage of $1500 was estimated.

Traffic was tied up for nearly an hour at Brinsley street and Columbia road, Dorchester, and on the middle of Neponset bridge where cars had to proceed one at a time.

The danger area in Brighton was at Commonwealth avenue and Warren street, at the foot of Washington Heights. Between 7:30 and 8:30 traffic was completely snarled, with skidding cars tearing away mudguards and bumpers and denting in fenders. A score of minor collisions occurred in the hour, until several cargoes of sand were spread over the hill.

Two thousand workers in the Boston public works department were "standing by" at the various city yards with 130 trucks equipped with snow plows.

Three hundred workers on 40 sand trucks were busy throughout the day, while 20 snowplows were in operation in the suburbs.

When the snowfall amounted to four inches they were to go into action. Other workers manning sand trucks had already put in a busy morning.

With a heavy snow falling throughout the morning, it was predicted the snow plows would be sent out by early afternoon.

Boston's first real snowfall will vanish quickly, the weather bureau predicted, with rising temperatures forecast for tomorrow.

STORM FROM WEST

The storm center moved rapidly from the Middle West to New England, leaving a heavy blanket of snow from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

Most of New England was whitened by the snow, sheathing highways with ice and rendering driving hazardous. In eastern Massachusetts the snow was three and one-half inches deep, but tapered off to comparatively light fall in Maine and Vermont and to a drizzling rain in southern New England.

In Haverhill a bakery truck driver was seriously injured when he was pinned against his truck by a skidding auto. He was Leroy Ross, 49, of Park street, who suffered internal injuries and a compound fracture of the right leg.

He was struck by a car reported driven by Samuel Becker of Main street, Haverhill.

Dig In! 38 More Heavy Snows Due!

Amherst, Nov. 24—Noting the first snowstorm of the season today, Herbert Goodrich came forward with his unique annual forecast for Massachusetts' winter.

He predicted today's storm is first of 38 of varying intensity to be expected this winter.

His formula—proven nearly correct in the last several years—is to add the day of the month of the first snowfall to the day of the week and the age of the new moon in days.

NEW FURNITURE FOR WALLY'S HOME

HER ROOMS PASTEL-TINTED

By DAVID P. SENTNER

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

London, Nov. 24—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson is planning minor alterations at her home in Cumberland Terrace in anticipation of doing considerable entertaining this winter, it was learned today.

Mrs. Simpson, who has returned to Cumberland Terrace after a week-end at King Edward's country home, Fort Belvedere, with her aunt, Mrs. D. B. Merryman of Washington, is devoting particular attention to her dining room.

She has relieved the austerity of the room's oaken walls and wrought-iron fixtures with several new pieces of furniture.

Mrs. Simpson is inclined to light, modern decorations. Her fashionable flat in Bryanston Square was done in this style, with the living room walls in pale apple-green and those of the bedroom in aquamarine blue.

Similar color schemes in hangings and covers are now being worked out in the eight-room house she leased from Mrs. Cuthbert Stewart until the end of May.

Pastel Shades

The drawing room walls and hangings are now a delicate green with a hint of gray, and the walnut furniture has been covered with green satin. The room is lighted by crystal chandeliers.

The bedroom walls are of a pastel shade of oyster pink with bed hangings and curtains to match. The bedroom furniture is of light ivory wood painted in semi-Florentine style. A cocktail bar has been built into a stone-floored alcove on the second story.

On Mrs. Simpson's dressing table is a picture of King Edward.

This detailed description of the house where the King is often a visitor was supplied by a close friend of Mrs. Simpson, who invariably attends her parties.

Baked King Cake

Mrs. Simpson baked a chocolate cake for King Edward as intense cold and fog kept the King's guests indoors at Fort Belvedere, his country estate.

Mrs. Simpson's chocolate cake has become a favorite delicacy of His Majesty, who also praises her chafing dish concoctions and her salads and luncheon dishes, which, though widely known in American Southern families, are new to England.

As King Edward is partial to American cooking, business method, and music, Mrs. Simpson's gift at cookery appeals greatly to the royal palate.

It was learned that the King has ordered for his prospective bride a magnificent ring from Cartier's, said to cost $75,000.

Publisher Dying After 2 Crashes

After being injured in two successive auto crashes today, C. Randolph Bennett, 52, a publisher, of Morton street, Newton Center, was in critical condition at City hospital.

Bennett suffered a fractured skull when his own car hit a subway abutment on Beacon street, near St. Mary's street, Back Bay.

Then he was bruised and shaken up again when the police ambulance, taking him to the hospital, hit a sedan at Huntington avenue and West Newton street, Back Bay.

BERLIN MOVES TO HALT RUSS DEATH TO 28

Berlin, Nov. 24 (INS)—Charging that third degree methods squeezed a confession of sabotage out of Emil I. Stickling, whose death sentence at Novosibirsk, Siberia, is due to be carried out within 24 hours, Germany today redoubled efforts to save him from the firing squad.

Under pressure from Britain which fears the danger of any drastic action in the present European situation, however, Germany took a calmer view of the Soviet conviction.

Every effort will be made, it was understood, to reach a compromise saving the life of Stickling and 27 other Germans awaiting trial, before the Reich breaks off diplomatic relations with the Soviets.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of Britain instructed Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, to urge Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler not to cause any Russo-German rift.

Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop, who informed Baldwin in London that Germany would probably break off Soviet relations if Stickling were shot, also promised to carry Baldwin's appeal to Hitler. It was believed that von Ribbentrop would make a flying visit to Berlin today.

Boy, 4, Brings 25 Cents To Xmas Basket Fund

Bobby Does His 2 Bits

Pathetic Appeals Fast Piling Up On Editor

By THE CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND EDITOR

It was only a quarter, but a quarter is a lot of money to a four-year-old.

A quarter is even a lot of money to a family where the four-year-old has had pneumonia, a double mastoid and all the hospital bills and doctors' bills that follow.

But this quarter was as good as one of those almost-forgotten gold pieces to the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, because it showed him that a little boy has been thinking about other little boys—girls, too.

The four-year-old was Robert Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy of Emerald street, Malden. Yes—the same four-year-old who has had the pneumonia and mastoids.

"Here," he said, shoving his 25-cent piece into the editor's hand. "This is for the baskets for the poor children."

Then he hid, bashfully, behind mother, while she explained.

It seems that while Bobby was sick and was talking about the holidays, somebody mentioned the children who don't look forward to Christmas as joyfully as he does.

NEED MORE BOBBYS

No sooner was Bobby out of bed and back in circulation again when—like a lot of four-year-olds—he started plying mother and dad with questions about it.

"He wouldn't be satisfied until I took him to town, cold day and all, so he could give a quarter out of his bank," Mrs. Murphy explained. "So here he is. And we wish, with all our hearts, it could be more."

The Christmas Basket Editor wasn't particularly wishing that. He was wishing that there were more Bobby Murphys in the world and more mothers and dads like Bobby's, because the business of feeding so many unfortunate families on Christmas Day would be so much simpler if there were.

There are a lot of people who think that if they can't give a dollar or five dollars or something like that, that small sums won't count. But they will. They do.

Take for example what one school teacher we know is starting. It's a penny-a-day club in her classroom.

She is asking the boys and girls to try to contribute a penny each school day for the next few weeks and see if they can't raise the price of a Christmas Basket for some poor family.

We thought that was pretty fine. We thought it would even be better if a lot of teachers in a lot of schools tried the same thing. Imagine how those pennies would mount up.

NICE FEELING, TOO

Imagine what a nice feeling it would be on Christmas Day, too, when you're having all your happiness, to think how somebody who mightn't have even a decent dinner would be blessing those who made their Christmas something other than the bleak day it would have been otherwise.

The penny-a-day idea could be spread around, too. Some of the people who work in offices or stores or factories who are interested could start dime-a-day clubs on the same principle. They could really feed quite a few families in a few weeks' time, if they wanted to.

And, you know, those investments pay their own dividends. It's such a small thing to start and just a big thing when it's finished.

The Christmas Basket Editor would like to hear from boys and girls, small or big, who agree with him. Why not you?

You see, it's getting pretty serious now with all the letters that are coming in. Letters like this:

"I am 11 years old. I am in the sixth grade and am writing this letter for my mother, as she is not well.

"Would you be so kind as to send us a Christmas Basket, as my father is not working very much. He goes around picking up rags and bottles in the ash cans.

"He walks all day and is so tired when he gets home and he doesn't make much as some days it is 50 cents and some days it is 75 cents.

"I hope you will send us a basket as mother says we will not have anything. I have a sister and a brother who is sick so he can't go to school. Please don't forget us."

We'll try not to forget you, little girl. And the Christmas Basket Fund Editor hopes that his readers won't forget there are hundreds of little girls and boys who are just as badly off.

DINNER AT 8

If only none of them need be forgotten.

Benny Ginsberg, impresario of the Club Mayfair on Broadway, is going to give his annual Christmas Basket Party on December 6 this year to help.

There will be a dinner at eight, according to present plans, with two hours or more of entertainment by radio, screen and stage stars, then dancing until 2 a. m.

That will be a tremendous boost for the Basket Fund. But remember the Fund needs a lot of boosts. Why don't you give it one, too—even a little one?

The Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser, is, of course, primarily for needy families, but no deserving case is barred.

Applications may be made with the Christmas Basket Fund Editor at 231 Devonshire street, a few doors from Franklin street, downtown. Donations will be taken there, or may be mailed to the Christmas Basket Fund at 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

RECEIVER FOR CONVEYANCERS TITLE NAMED

Joseph J. Mulhern, former state senator from Dorchester, was appointed temporary receiver for the Conveyancers Title Insurance and Mortgage Company of 20 State street today by Supreme Court Justice John C. Crosby.

Justice Crosby acted on a bill in equity filed by State Insurance Commissioner Frances J. DeCelles. He set December 8 as the date for a hearing.

The company was formed nearly 50 years ago and includes some of Boston's most prominent business men and bankers among its officers and directors.

It insures titles on city property and also does a mortgage business. At the close of last year it reported a surplus of $328,853 to the insurance department. The capitalization is $1,500,000.

Mulhern will be required to file a surety bond of $100,000, Commissioner DeCelles said.

The commissioner also announced that he was investigating four or five other companies and may ask that receivers be appointed or take other action.

15 Seek Paroles From State Prison

The pardon committee of the executive council expected to conclude today its deliberations on cases of 15 state prison inmates seeking Thanksgiving clemency.

Several "lifers" are among those asking freedom on pardon or parole. Final action by the governor and council will be taken tomorrow.

HARVARD'S SEAL OUT

Shield Off R. I. Capitol Ceiling

Providence, Nov. 24—By order of Governor Theodore F. Green, who has been trying to accomplish just this thing for the last 29 years, the seal of Harvard University has been expunged from the ceiling of the State House Library, it was learned today.

Although Governor Green is an alumnus of Harvard Law School, he started his drive against the "Veritas" seal in 1907, when he was a member of the Democratic minority in the General Assembly. Republicans defeated him then.

Today it was discovered the library had been redecorated and the seal of William Caxton, father of English printers, had replaced the Harvard shield.

The Governor said that the seal had no place on the ceiling anyhow, as the rest of the decorations included seals of 16 famous printers.

He said he thought that Stanford White, architect for the library, had "just worked in the Harvard seal because he was a Harvard man."

Letter Features $125,000 Suit

Worcester, Nov. 24—Defense counsel today produced for evidence a letter written by Raymond A. Cassett in Worcester superior court in Cassett's $125,000 suit against Martin Van Buren Coe, member of a wealthy Worcester family.

Cassett is suing for services allegedly rendered Coe over a period of five years.

In the letter, Cassett wrote Coe that he had left a Worcester automobile agency because of unfavorable working conditions.

Cassett had contended that he had left the agency to manage Coe's affairs.

The letter, written in February, 1928, contained a reference to "Vera" as a "peach."

A $40,000 breach of promise suit is pending against Cassett by Miss Vera Pritchard of Grafton.

Cassett was married two months ago to Mrs. Frances Louise Legg, wealthy Worcester widow.

Blanks of 500 Employers Late

Acting Postmaster Peter F. Tague today announced that less than 500 of the 40,000 Social Security cards sent to employers remain unreturned.

As to that action will be taken against those employers who failed to return the cards on time Tague had nothing to say.

It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

Us Wilkens buying a Thanksgiving turkey over at Farmer Smollett's place.

That's Farmer Smollett bent down there and remarking to us how you can't expect a turkey to get itself all plumped full of tender meat without you fattening him up on first rate grain. Pa Wilken always said the same about whiskey. You got to use the finest cleanest grain if you want your whiskey to have a grand taste and body to it. To the left of Farmer Smollett, it's Tom and me. And on the right, it's William and a party everybody around here calls Cap. Look at our dog Jessie there. If she had her way, I don't guess we'd have that turkey on Thanksgiving!

For special tastiness on Thanksgiving

—enjoy the personal whiskey recipe of a family of distillers!

This Family's Whiskey of ours fits into Thanksgiving feasting like nothing else. You see the Wilken Family Whiskey is really something pretty special. I don't imagine there's anything like it anywheres around. For it so happens that we've been a family of whiskey making folks ever since anybody can remember. Thinking back, I still mind the time when I used to watch my old Grandpa Wilken busying himself over one of those old-fashioned looking stills they used to have those days. And as for Pa Wilken—his personal experience comes to something more than 40 whole years. So you can easy see there's plenty of reason for The Wilken Family's own family recipe being just about the tastiest whiskey you ever come across!

'Song 'n Gag' Man's Suitor Role, Told

When Romance Ruled Life

DIVORCE AIRED

Springfield, Nov. 24—For a man who was going to Europe merely to further his musical education, "Song and Gag Man" Morris Humphrey did quite a job playing the role of an ardent lover on the way, it was testified here today.

He was "very attentive" to Mrs. Gertrude Greeley Whiting, 57-year-old widow of a prominent Holyoke manufacturer — even while husband Samuel was alive—Mrs. Jessie Brown, good-looking Whiting nurse, told the court.

Humphrey, onetime bandmaster, dancer, master of ceremonies and other things, is suing Mrs. Whiting for $100,000 on the ground that she broke a contract to furnish him with $100 a week for life.

Mrs. Whiting is also the sister-in-law of the late William F. Whiting, Secretary of Commerce under President Coolidge.

AIRS RENO DIVORCE

Humphrey, 42 years old, testified in cross-examination today that he obtained a Reno divorce from his wife with money furnished by Mrs. Whiting.

"She insisted that I get it so that there would be no strings tied to me to interfere with my career," he retorted, in answer to a question by District Attorney Thomas F. Moriarty, counsel for Mrs. Whiting.

Q—You loved her, that's why you got it? A—Towards the end—yes.

Q—You got it because you wanted to insure that $100 a month, didn't you? (Humphrey said it was $100 a week.) A.—I got it at Mrs. Whiting's insistence.

Q—You never had a scrap of this contract calling for $100 a week for life in writing, did you? A.—No.

BIG BAND PLANNED

Earlier Humphrey said that he gave up his career in vaudeville and night club circles because Mrs. Whiting had told him she was going to help him form a "big dance band."

"We were going to have two pianos in the band," he said. "She was going to play one of them and I the other."

Moriarty then opened the defense by putting Mrs. Brown on the stand. He asked her about the trip Mrs. Whiting took to Europe in 1929.

Q—Did anyone see you off on the boat? A—Yes, Mr. Whiting and two of the Whiting children.

Q—Was Humphrey aboard? A—Yes.

ATTENDANCE ON BOAT

Q—During the voyage, did you ever hear any overtures of love from Humphrey to Mrs. Whiting? A—Yes, often.

Q—In what way? A—He was very attentive to her and seemed like an ardent lover.

Then the witness was asked if she recalled a trip that Humphrey made to Springfield from New York on the occasion of one of his birthday anniversaries.

She said she did and that she and Mrs. Whiting came down to Springfield from Holyoke and met Humphrey at the Bridgeway Hotel.

They had dinner and there was a birthday cake on the table, Mrs. Brown testified.

VISITED NIGHT CLUBS

Q—Who paid for the birthday cake? A—I suppose Mrs. Whiting did.

Q—Do you know who paid the entire bill? A—No, I don't.

Moriarty then skipped back to Europe and asked the witness if she recalled particularly about Humphrey trying to further his musical education in Paris. She said she didn't observe any particular indications that he was thus employed.

Q—Did he ever take any piano lessons while there? A—No.

Q—Why was a piano moved into the (Paris) apartment? A—Because Mrs. Whiting was an excellent pianist and wanted it for her amusement.

Q—Did you go to night clubs with Humphrey and Mrs. Whiting? A—Yes, many.

MRS. WHITING ABSENT

Q—Did Humphrey take notes of pictures and other incidentals with a view towards using them in staging a revue in this country, as he has testified? A—No, he went to the night clubs and conducted himself just like anybody else would.

The case continued in the Hampden Superior Court here, but it continued without the presence of either of the principals.

Humphrey departed after his cross-examination and his second day on the stand. Mrs. Whiting hasn't yet made her appearance.

NAME SHEEHAN TO LEAD WAR ON RACKETS

time to time, were denying any such occurrences.

Police officials finally admitted that such holdups—and the gambling enterprises that underlie them—existed, when they ordered arrests of suspects yesterday.

Today at noon Commissioner McSweeney called Captain Sheehan to headquarters and conferred with him and Superintendent Edward W. Fallon, after which announcement of the appointment was made.

The commissioner said:

TO NAME OWN AIDS

"In furtherance of the continuous and relentless campaign waged by the Boston police department for the last year and nine months to rid the city and keep it rid of crime and vice, Captain James T. Sheehan, commanding division 10, has this day been detailed Acting Inspector of Divisions, until further notice, with instructions to select such assistants as he may require, and to make an immediate and thorough investigation of all police divisions of the city."

Captain Thomas Casey, who had commanded division 10 in the past, was sent to replace Captain Sheehan in that district. Casey has been in the bureau of records. Captain William W. Livingston now a deputy superintendent, was the last inspector of divisions. The post has been vacant for some time.

PRAISED BY HOOVER

Captain Sheehan attended and was graduated from the special crime school conducted last year by G. Edgar Hoover, and he received a certificate of completion of the course from the hands of U. S. Attorney General Homer Cummings.

Both officials personally praised the Boston officer, and Hoover sent word to Commissioner McSweeney last January stating that Sheehan was a credit to the Boston police department.

He has been in the department since Sept. 27, 1920. From patrolman in the Back Bay division, he rose to become a plain clothes officer and was then transferred to the detective bureau at headquarters. On Sept. 1, 1927, he was made sergeant and served in that capacity at the old East Dedham street station in the South End.

PREVIOUS PROMOTIONS

In 1931 he was made a lieutenant and sent back to headquarters. Later he saw service at the Milk street station, returning to headquarters to work in the Bureau of Records. He took charge of that bureau upon his promotion to the rank of captain in December, 1934.

He was sent to the Roxbury Crossing division early this year.

Captain Sheehan is married and has six children, including twins. His home is in West Roxbury. His brother, Timothy J. Sheehan, is an inspector in the traffic division.

"DIAMOND IN COAL BIN"

During the Garrett investigation conducted by the then Attorney-General Joseph E. Warner, Sheehan, then a sergeant, was the only one who came forward and answered a challenge hurled by the attorneys who were presenting evidence against Garrett.

The honesty and veracity of superior officers in the divisions in which Special Officer Oliver Garrett conducted his raids had been questioned.

Sheehan left his vacation to appear before Warner who complimented him and said the remarks had not been intended to apply to him. Sheehan was placed by Warner in the same category as the then Deputy Superintendent James McDevitt, who was described as "a diamond in the coal bin."

MAY END CURLEY PLAN

Politically the appointment of Captain Sheehan to be inspector of divisions was viewed as a very smart move by Commissioner McSweeney, inasmuch as it would probably put an end to Governor Curley's plans to remove the commissioner.

Commissioner McSweeney's announcement of the appointment also stated:

"He shall report to the superintendent daily in writing, stating the divisions he has inspected and shall call specifically to the attention of the superintendent every matter of importance concerning proper police administration."

The appointment became effective this noon, the moment it was made.

Meanwhile federal income tax assessments on Boston underworld operations were revealed, while leaders of illicit enterprises were still seeking ways and means to halt the gouging of their bankrolls by machine-gun bandits.

Federal authorities went after the Boston men in the same manner as they went after "Al" Capone and "Dutch" Shultz, except that they were willing to refrain from prosecution if the accused individuals paid up—which all of them did.

Operators of horse race betting establishments, handbook men, number pool racketeers and the men profiteering in other gambling enterprises, including the Italian lottery, all fell victims of the government's drive.

The investigation leading up to the day when these men paraded into the Federal Building and laid their money on the line was an undercover probe made under the supervision of a special agent of the U. S. Treasury Department.

Bank accounts were carefully studied and the underworld profiteers were confronted with figures, so nearly accurate, on their earnings, that they, their lawyers and their accountants were all amazed.

One of them balked at paying and was left to worry for five long weeks while the government uncovered further facts on his operations and made him pay twice what he could have got off with the first time.

In another case the income tax deliquent—which is the income tax bureau's polite name for the man with whom it was dealing—was found to have deposited more than $3,000,000 over the course of a two-year period.

His tax would have gone above $500,000 had he not been able to prove that most of what he made oozed out of his purse into the stock market and was lost forever.

ALL HAVE PAID UP

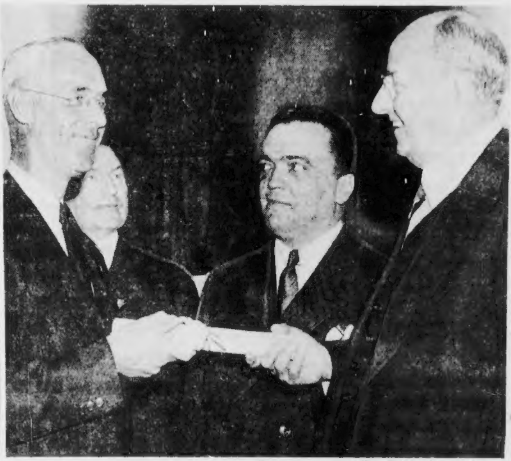
Some of the special agents who assisted in the investigation in this district were men who made notable records during prohibition days as alcohol investigators under Robert W. Coyne.

One of these agents, having seen ten years' service in the prohibition field, proved invaluable to his chiefs.

He knew all about the bootleggers who, after repeal, went into the legitimate liquor business only to fall by the wayside in competition with older concerns, after which they sought to recoup their ases in race rooms and number pols.

The government has not had to le suit in any case. In every case e accused made a settlement.

As Sheehan Graduated From Crime School



(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

Captain James T. Sheehan, left, of Roxbury Crossing, who was today appointed temporary inspector of divisions in the Boston police department, is shown ae received from U. S. Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings his diploma as a graduate of the crime school in Washington, D. C. The school is under the direction of Edgar Hoover, cente head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

making it impossible for her to sail on schedule.

EASTERN SIGNS PACT

Union officials announed that the Eastern Steamship Company and the Colonial Line would not be affected. Both companies have signed an agreement wit hthe union.

Hope that a omplete walkout might yet be averted was held by civic and business leaders.

The unions calling the strike are the Masters, Mates and Pilots Association and the Marine Engineers Benevolent Association each with about 500 members in Boston.

There was a definite possibility that the longshoremen would join in sympathy, although John J. Donovan, vice-president of the International Longshoremen's Association, declared:

"We don't know what we are going to do."

FEAR FUEL SHORTAGE

What was greatly feared here was that if a strike should continue for some time, a bad fuel shortage would occur during the winter months. Even food shipments coming into New England would probably be affected, it was stated by union officials.

In New England, six big shipping lines were expected to be affected and includes 53 ships and more than 1000 officers.

Alaska Rations Milk: No Turkeys

Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 24 (AP)—Rationing of canned milk, six cans to the customer; no turkeys for Thanksgiving; fresh vegetable supplies exhausted; no more coal—these formed the reports from Alaskan cities today on effects of the maritime strike.

Details of the survey were disclosed while negotiations were under way in San Francisco for the chartering of steamships by the Alaska railroad to bring food.

Transfer 447 Strike "Exiles" to Liner

Honolulu Nov. 24 (AP)—A bright Hawaiian moon and glaring ship's floodlights were the "spot" for a midnight ocean drama—transfer of 447 "exiles" from a pitching pineapple barge to an ocean liner.

Today, after waving exhausted alohas, the tourists headed for the United States, ending an enforced stay of three to four weeks because of the port-paralyzing maritime strike.

N. Y. Strikers Ready to Picket Liner

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Striking seamen laid plans for heavy picketing today when the United States Liner President Roosevelt arrives from Europe.

In spite of an announcement by the United States Lines that the vessel's return trip had been cancelled, the strike committee went ahead with its plans to picket the ship at the pier and by launches and airplanes.

U. S. Seeks Renewal of Peace Parley

San Francisco, Nov. 24 (AP)—Federal officials pinned hopes for peace in the maritime strike on renewed negotiations with one shipowners' group as they sought release today of Alaska food supplies from the spreading blockade of American ports.

Hospital Job Stirs Fight

John J. Bryan, ambulance driver at Quincy City Hospital, who left his job after he was informed his temporary appointment would not be renewed when it expired in a few days, today was expected to carry out his plans of carrying the case before the civil service commission.

He also said he would take it before the courts if necessary. Dr. Joseph B. Leone, superintendent of the hospital, who informed Bryan that his services would no longer be required, said his work had been "unsatisfactory and un-cooperative."

Social Security

1,000,000 Blanks Go Out in State

Outsiders Get In on Aid

Today nearly one million social security application blanks went out to men, women and children in Massachusetts. If you are interested in the social security act as it affects you, continue this series in the Boston Evening American.

A busy postoffice department sent out today nearly 1,000,000 social security account application blanks to employes within Massachusetts.

And so popular had the act become as the postoffice department embarked on the last and hardest stage of inaugurating the greatest attempt at social legislation in the world that many persons, self-employed and therefore exempt from both taxes and benefits under the act, took steps to be included.

They began moving to incorporate themselves, employ themselves on salary, and thus become eligible under the act—both for taxes and benefits.

They could not stand to see their employes getting lined up for annuities in the years to come, when they themselves were not going to be eligible for old age pensions under the act.

The application blanks went out today to butcher, baker, and candle stick maker, all over the state—provided they worked for someone else.

For the small business man who works for himself, perhaps employs one or two persons to whom he pays almost as much as he can take out of the business on his own account, there was no provision. So these men began to think about ways and means of getting in on the social security act.

HOW TO GET IN

One such, in at social security headquarters today, said:

"I own a small bakeshop. I have two men working for me, and I pay them $35 a week, because they are skilled men.

"The most I can get out of the business myself is about $30 a week, and they get social security and so forth, while I cannot.

"So I am incorporating my business, and I am going to employ myself and work for a salary.

"This will increase my taxes under the social security act, but it will also enable me to come under the provision of the act and begin to pile up credits toward a pension."

Many others are of the same mind, dramatizing the supreme cooperation the government has thus far received as it attempts to set up a huge system of book-keeping and registration, not equalled since General Hugh Johnson put through the draft enactment during the world war.

Even then, while General Johnson had to register every able-bodied man in the United States, the social security board is registering every employed person in the United States, whether able-bodied or not.

26,000,000 LEDGERS

And furthermore, General Johnson did not have to keep books on his registerees, whereas the Social Security Board has to keep a separate ledger for every person registered under the Social Security Act, 26,000,000 ledgers.

Today you receive a blank asking for certain information that will identify you as long as you live and work in the United States. This blank must be filled out and returned before December 5, 1936.

This blank registers you for life with the Social Security Board.

Wherever you go, whatever jobs you may hold, this blank will enable the government to keep track of you, and credit whatever you may earn toward a pension when you reach the age of 65 years.

This means that the government must file your information card in such a way that whatever happens, the government will be able to recognize you instantly, and without hesitation.

Whenever you reach the age of 65, the government must know it immediately, and must stand ready to pay you the old age pension you have earned.

Another article in this series explaining the social security act and its administration will appear in the Boston Evening American tomorrow. If you have any individual questions about the act, address them to the Social Security Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square.

Your Queries Answered

Following are some of the questions Boston Evening American readers are asking about social security. If you have a question of your own, address it to the Boston Evening American Social Security Editor, 5 Winthrop Square.

Q—Will you kindly explain to me if I have to fill out a Social Security blank? I sell oil and have but one employe. I really do not have much business.

A—The volume of your business makes no difference to the government. If you have one employe and pay him wages, you must register, and must pay one per cent of what you pay your employe to the government. At the same time, you must hold back one cent on the dollar of his wages and pay that, too. This allows your employe to participate in later years in the benefits of the Social Security Act. You have no choice, you must register. You do not, however, have to pay taxes under the state unemployment insurance act, as this anticipates that you employ eight or more persons.

Q—I want to ask you a question about the Social Security Act. My father is 78 years old, was born in Canada, but has paid taxes in the United States for 40 years. He is not naturalized. Can he get a pension?

HAS PASSED AGE

A—The old age pension program of the Social Security Act does not apply to persons who have already reached the age of 65. The fact that your father was born in Canada and has never been naturalized has nothing to do with the question. The problem is one of compulsory old age insurance, and your father has passed the age set by the government for this act. He can therefore receive nothing, unless he can show himself in need and secure old age assistance through your local public welfare office.

Q—Would like to ask you where I stand with regard to social security. Came here from another country and was never naturalized. Can I ever get a pension. What do I have to do?

A—Your nationality has nothing to do with your getting a pension. You could be an Eskimo and still get one. All you have to do is work during five separate years between January first and your 65th birthday, and earn $2000 in that time. If you do that you will get your pension, whether you are naturalized or not. As for what you have to do, fill out the blank your employer will give you sometime within the next few days according to the directions on the back, turn it in either through your employer or to the postoffice direct, and automatically you will receive an account number under the act. Your wages will be credited to your account, and will pile up toward your pension.

3 FACE COURT IN TRAILER LOVE TRIANGLE

Northampton, Nov. 24—The strange background to the "caravan of human relations" which resulted in the arrest of an ex-circus flyer, his legal wife, his common-law wife, and children by each of them, was unfolded here today as two states pondered legal action.

Noel Coward made a hit play of the idea but officials of this city and of Hartford, Conn., were frankly stumped by the situation which the "legal wife" sobbed "nobody but us can figure out."

While she and 35-year-old Frank Gordert were being held here, and two of the three children being cared for in a home, Miss Clementine Esther Fontaine, her two-weeks' old baby with her, was in police custody at Hartford.

PROBLEM FOR COURT

Tomorrow, in district court, Gordert will appear to answer a charge of operating an automobile without a license, while his wife, Mrs. Helen L. Gordert, faces vagrancy proceedings.

Since Gordert did not drive his trailer and his common law wife over the boundary of this state officials can prefer no morals charge against him. It was believed highly possible, however, that Massachusetts authorities would permit the "couple" to go to Hartford to answer charges there.

One thing only was clear—that each in the bizarre triangle considers the others "a good kid."

WHEN IT BEGAN

Goldert told police that the pilgrimage of "mutual understanding" began in Detroit after he had lost his job there as a taxi-driver.

"Helen comes into the picture again," he told officials, "just because she is a good kid. Esther, whom I had known for some time, needed a home and was going to have a baby.

"I asked Helen to come with us and take care of the children, and she agreed."

Previously, he explained, his first wife had visited him in jail in Detroit, where he was serving a sentence for custom irregularities, and had spoken to him of divorce plans. Until his appeal for aid to her, she had been working as a telephone operator in Brooklyn.

"Then I bought the trailer," he continued, "and put $15 down. I went into Ohio, got the car registered and lived in many states."

ON STRANGE WAY

According to police, the baby, of whom Gordert admits being the father, was born two weeks ago in a Schenectady, N. Y., hospital.

On November 14, Esther rejoined the caravan and the cross-country travels of the menage a trois, plus three children, continued.

His first meeting with the law came in Belchertown last Saturday when he allegedly solicited funds from a Mason. Police say he freely admitted that he daily solicited for money in which to keep his "family" on the move, with hopes of reaching a warmer climate before snowfall.

20 Students of Bay State To Be Inaugural Guests

ALL-EXPENSE TRIP TO CAPITAL IN JANUARY

First of 10 Questions Will Appear Tomorrow

Twenty Massachusetts high school students—10 boys and 10 girls—are going to be guests at President Roosevelt's inauguration in January.

They will sit with the leading men and women of this nation and other nations and behold one of the most colorful pageants in American history.

They will stay at Washington's finest hotels, drive about the national capital and see all the principal places of interest.

It will be a glorious occasion for these 20 fortunate young people—one each will remember as long as he lives.

The students will go to the inauguration as members of the Boston Evening American party. From the moment they leave their homes until they return, all their expenses will be paid.

They will be free to enjoy themselves as only young folks can and to see all that it is possible to see of the country's most impressive ceremony.

ANSWER QUESTIONS

A place in the inaugural tour party is open to every student attending a public, private or parochial high school in Massachusetts.

All he has to do is to read the ten simple historical questions that will be presented daily in the Boston Evening American, beginning tomorrow, and to answer them in not more than 100 words.

Every girl and boy who has read his American history can answer these questions. They concern information all good citizens ought to know.

And the 20 who write the best replies in the opinion of the board of judges will find themselves on a fast train bound for Washington.

There they will be joined by other boys and girls from New York, Chicago and San Francisco—and from every city in which Hearst newspapers are published.

HERE ARE RULES

The rules and regulations of the Inauguration Tour Competition are as follows:

1—Ten questions on historic subjects will be published for 10 days, one question each day, from Wednesday, November 25, to Friday, December 4.

2—High school students from public and parochial high schools of Massachusetts submitting the best answers to these questions will be provided with transportation, hotel and other expenses to Washington, where, under a chaperone, they will be guests at President Roosevelt's inauguration.

3—The winners will be chosen by a board of judges including leading educators and officials. Twenty high school students will be chosen from Massachusetts.

4—The ten questions to be answered will be printed beginning Wednesday, November 25, and the answers are NOT TO BE SENT IN UNTIL THE LAST OF THE QUESTIONS IS PUBLISHED on Friday, December 4. Answers submitted from day to day CAN NOT BE ACCEPTED as entries. This rule will be strictly adhered to.

5—The closing date of the Roosevelt Inauguration Tour Competition will be midnight, December 6, by which time all answers must be in. Neatness of the answers and correct spelling of historic names and places will be taken into consideration by the board of judges, whose decision shall be final and not subject to appeal.

All inquiries relating to the competition should be addressed to: Roosevelt Inauguration Tour Competition, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

The Inaugural Parade, with fife and drum and flags unfurled, swings past the White House reviewing stand as President Roosevelt takes the oath at his first inauguration. Scenes like this will be witnessed by the 20 high school students who win free trips to Washington in January.

China to Mobilize

Nanking, Nov. 24 (AP)—National government spokesmen pledged China today to mobilize its entire war strength to resist alleged Japanese aggression in Continental Asia.

Labor Row Halts Postal Unit Work

Another labor dispute tied up work today at the new Parcel Post building on Dorchester avenue, next to the South Station.

This time it was the elevator hoisters arguing with the elevator mechanics over who has the right to operate the elevators in carrying materials.

Because of the impasse, Postmaster Tague said, it is unlikely that the building will be completed by January 1.

Other controversies between labor groups engaged in the construction previously blocked having the building ready for the Christmas rush, as planned.

Framingham Court O. K.'s Cop Ouster

Framingham, Nov. 24 — Judge William H. Bigelow of Framingham district court today filed a ruling sustaining the selectmen in their removal of Patrolman Thomas F. Meehan.

Meehan was dismissed from the department September 10 after he was charged, among other things, with taking a siren from the automobile in which Army Sergeant Harold Weeks was killed and failing to turn it in to the police station.

Ex-Truant Officer, 76, Dies in Quincy

Charles H. Johnson of Upland road, Quincy, truant officer of Quincy for 36 years, died today. He was 76 years old.

Johnson was well-known along the South Shore. He retired as truant officer in 1934. He is survived by three sons, Herbert, Elliot and C. Abbott Johnson.

8 Children Dead In Reich Epidemic

Berlin, Nov. 24 (INS)—Besieged by frantic parents, the medical force at Relberstadt in the Harz Mountains today rushed into the task of vaccinating 10,000 children from one to 14 years old in an effort to curb a diphtheria epidemic.

With eight children dead and 120 ill, doctors are vaccinating at the rate of 150 patients an hour.

EXPLAINS WORK OF RED CROSS MACHINERY

The great drive of the Boston Chapter of the American Red Cross gained momentum today with hopes expressed for the goal of 100,000 members by Thanksgiving day.

Public response has been gratifying, officials stated, but added that there must be a large increase in subscriptions during the closing days to reach the quota.

Frederic C. Munroe, executive director, explained today the complete machinery for the relief of human suffering which the Red Cross can throw into the scene of a disaster almost on a moment's notice.

READY FOR WORST

"If a disaster should visit the territory of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter," he said, "a great fire, for example, which drove thousands of people from their homes—the Chapter would be prepared to furnish promptly food, clothing, shelter and medical care."

He pointed out that at the Army Base in South Boston, the Chapter has stored more than four hundred cots, blankets, medical supplies, surgical dressings and other emergency equipment which would be used during the first hours of the catastrophe.

LIFE INSURANCE

Immediately, he said, the general committee would then call upon the sub-committees on clothing, food, medical aid, shelter, transportation, information and nursing to swing into action.

In addition a disaster call would be issued to the volunteer motor corps of a hundred drivers, the canteen corps and experienced workers.

A rescue committee, composed of persons trained in first aid, would work in co-operation with and under the direction of the police and fire departments.

The Mayor would be notified of this action and be requested to issue a proclamation designing the Red Cross as the official disaster relief agency.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN

School Appeals for Help

Because of a record enrollment and an expanded program in the treatment of its students' physical defects, the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children has issued an appeal in its annual report for continued donations from the organization's friends.

The school's average enrollment for the year was 133, and the average daily enrollment was 121. During the year 29,500 meals were served, an increase of 3000 over the previous year.

An average of 35 children per day received exercise treatment, 10 of whom were sufficiently improved to enter public schools.

An increase in the number of infantile paralysis cases and the larger enrollment are responsible for the increased medical care, according to Vernon K. Brackett, school superintendent.

A great many of the girl and boy students were sent to summer camps and at the close of school all children were given the necessary equipment to aid in overcoming infirmities.

In the annual report the trustees of the school stated:

"While the financial condition of the school is sound, the cost of conducting it exceeds by a substantial amount its fixed revenue. Because of the reduced returns on investments we must depend now more than formerly on the annual donations of those interested enough to make the school's problems their own.

"We appeal to those whose generosity has supported the work in the past to lend the school their continued support so that it may never be necessary to turn away any deserving child."

The school's expenditures for the past year totalled $71,916.56, of which $68,405 was paid by income from trust funds. During the year the school received $59,839.30 in legacies.

Her Turn

Wichita, Kas., Nov. 24 (AP)—In six years, attractive Irene Waggoner had filled out some 10,000 marriage licenses in the county probate judge's office, but when bridegroom Perry M. Elliott appeared she balked.

The chief deputy subbed for her and wrote her name on the license.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Pills and drugs give only temporary relief. The sensible thing to do is to put "bulk" back into your meals.

Millions of people get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Its "bulk" is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Some years ago, an investigation was made among thousands of ALL-BRAN users. 98 per cent found it satisfactory. Only 2 per cent had the type of constipation that would not respond to ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Galli-Curci Glad She's Nervous

Chicago, Nov. 24 (AP)—Amelita Galli-Curci was nervous today, and glad of it—she said it was a good omen for her second operatic "debut" in the city where 20 years ago she first won fame.

She was nervous then, too, she recalled.

An audience in Chicago's Civic Opera House will hear for the first time tonight what Mme. Galli-Curci calls her new soprano voice, developed after a goiter operation here in August, 1935. She will appear as Mimi in "La Boheme."

Amelita Galli-Curci

It will be her first public appearance since a concert in Japan last June.

Shanghai, Nov. 24 (AP)—Chinese dispatches from Kweisui tonight said defenders of Suiyuan Province had taken Pailingmiao from Mongol invaders in a surprise counter-attack.

POLISH SCHOOL IN RACE STRIKE

Warsaw, Nov. 24 (AP)—Six hundred University of Warsaw students, a third of them girls, locked themselves in the college building today and announced they would refuse to leave until the university agrees to segregate Jews and gentiles.

The students were spurred by the success of hunger-striking students at Wilno University, who yesterday won a promise for semitic segregation. The Warsaw boys and girls also demanded lower tuition fees.

Lectures were suspended indefinitely.

Anti-Jewish rioting broke out among students at Krakow. One Jewish student was kicked downstairs and seriously injured. Disorders also continued at Wilno, despite heavy police patrols. Thirty-eight persons, including ten Jews, were arrested at Wilno.

Of 158 men who took examinations for foremen jobs with the city of Boston, 69 have qualified to apply for positions in the highway, sanitation and sewer divisions.

London, Nov. 24 (AP) — Two woolen scarfs, one knitted by Princess Elizabeth, 10, and the other by Princess Margaret Rose, 6, daughters of the Duke and Duchess of York, are among the collection of clothing and linen to be distributed this winter by Queen Mary's Needlework Guild.

Princess Elizabeth is becoming an expert knitter. Each year the scarfs she knits for her grandmother's guild collection show fewer dropped stitches.

Her younger sister, Princess Margaret, still appears to have difficulty with her knitting, although she stuck to her task gamely until the scarf was finished.

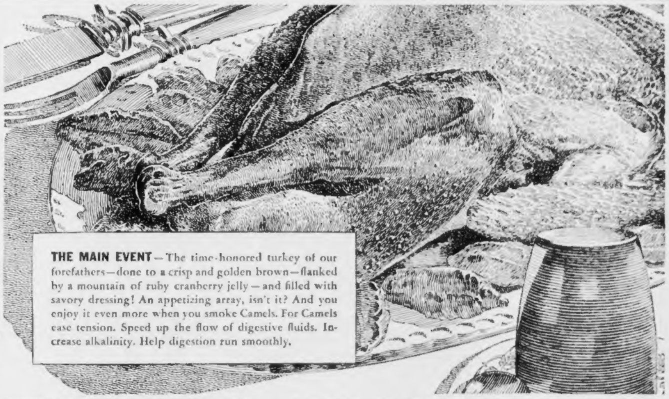
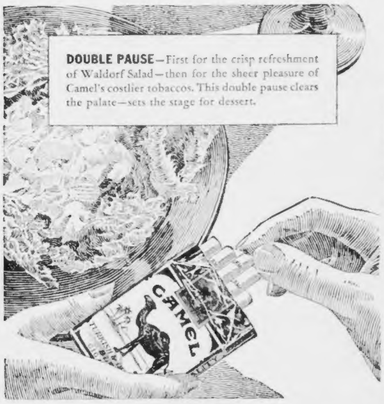
Thanksgiving Dinner

...and then the peaceful feeling that comes from good digestion and smoking Camels!

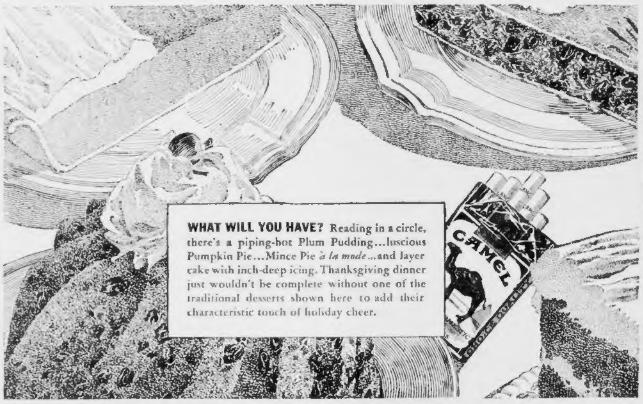
OFF TO A GOOD START—with a dish of hot, spiced tomato soup—delicious in itself and an exciting prelude to the delights to come!



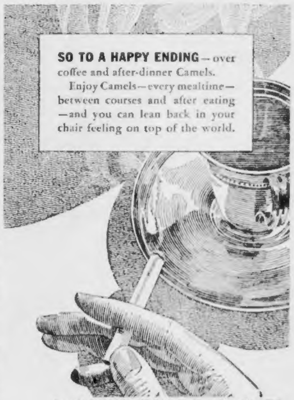
THE MAIN EVENT—The time-honored turkey of our forefathers—done to a crisp and golden brown—flanked by a mountain of ruby cranberry jelly—and filled with savory dressing! An appetizing array, isn't it? And you enjoy it even more when you smoke Camels. For Camels ease tension. Speed up the flow of digestive fluids. Increase alkalinity. Help digestion run smoothly.



DOUBLE PAUSE—First for the crisp refreshment of Waldorf Salad—then for the sheer pleasure of Camel's costlier tobaccos. This double pause clears the palate—sets the stage for dessert.



WHAT WILL YOU HAVE? Reading in a circle, there's a piping-hot Plum Pudding...luscious Pumpkin Pie...Mince Pie à la mode...and layer cake with inch-deep icing. Thanksgiving dinner just wouldn't be complete without one of the traditional desserts shown here to add their characteristic touch of holiday cheer.



SO TO A HAPPY ENDING—over coffee and after-dinner Camels.

Enjoy Camels—every mealtime—between courses and after eating—and you can lean back in your chair feeling on top of the world.

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

FOOD EDITOR—Miss Dorothy Malone says: "Being a food editor, I'm quite interested in good digestion. Smoking Camels with my meals and afterwards helps build up a sense of digestive well-being."

"THE BEST MEAL I ever ate would be a disappointment if I couldn't enjoy Camels," says William H. Ferguson, salesman. "They give me an extra sense of well-being and contentment—set me right!"

Good food and good tobacco go together naturally!

RIGHT down the line—from explorers living on "iron rations" to the millions of men and women who'll heartily enjoy a big Thanksgiving dinner—it is agreed that Camels set you right! Camels help to ease tension. And to increase the flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—so important to your digestive well-being. You enjoy food more and have a feeling of greater ease after eating when you smoke Camels between courses and after meals.

Enjoy Camels all you wish—all through the day. Your taste doesn't tire of the matchless flavor of Camel's costlier tobaccos. Steady smokers say that Camels are so mild they never get on the nerves. And when you're tired, try this: get a "lift" with a Camel.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Helps END A COLD Quicker

The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

[illegible] when the rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways.

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute [illegible] of the nose, throat and chest.

This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets

This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

For the more formal Thanksgiving dinner you'll like Heinz Consommé—sparkling, amber essence of fine meats—or Heinz Genuine Turtle Soup. Don't gasp. Of course you can afford it. Heinz now offers this epicurean soup at no increase in the moderate Heinz prices.

The Cardinal's Thanks

[illegible] O'Connell [illegible] the following [illegible] Boston Evening American:

"My heart is filled with deepest gratitude to God and to my many friends and fellow citizens, in all walks of life, for the generous expressions of appreciation of my years of service among them.

"No one more than I realizes how far short of complete attainment my feeble but sincere efforts have fallen, but this only proves the generosity of all those who have sent me such kindly messages of good will.

"I wish I might meet and thank personally all those who through the Boston Sunday Advertiser and private letters have given such precious evidence of true friendship. Since this is not possible, I beg them to accept this public acknowledgment of my profound gratitude.

"I wish also to acknowledge my grateful thanks to the press of Boston for its uniform kindness to me on this and all similar occasions.

"May I venture to ask the prayers of all my good friends, on next Friday, the 25th anniversary of my elevation to the sacred College of Cardinals, that God, in His mercy, may pardon my shortcomings and grant me the grace and strength to dedicate myself anew to the service of God and my neighbor and to the peace and prosperity of my beloved country."

POPE SENDS CARDINAL GREETING, BLESSING

[illegible]

"We, therefore, who have no happier tradition than to aid with paternal benevolence and grateful heart our helpers and counselors in the [illegible] of the Church, take advantage of the happy occasion of this celebration to congratulate you on the excellent work that you have so admirably accomplished and we pray that God in His Goodness may send true happiness to you and to all the members of your flock.

"Meanwhile, in order that the sacred celebration of the forthcoming event may be of greater benefit to the faithful, we grant to you, upon whatever day you may choose, the power to give in Our name and with Our authority, after the celebration of Mass, the Apostolic Benediction to all present and also a Plenary indulgence to be gained in the usual manner.

"May the Apostolic Benediction which we grant most lovingly in the Lord to you, Our beloved son, to your Auxiliary Bishop and to all the priests and people committed to your care, be an augury of heavenly blessings and most particularly, may it be a witness of Our affection for you.

"Given at Rome, at St. Peter's on the 8th day of November, in the year of Our Lord, nineteen thirty six and the fifteenth of our Pontificate."

Harmonious Conditions Stressed

POPE PRAISES HIS EMINENCE

By JAMES F. McENANEY

More harmonious feeling among those of opposite creeds and races living here in New England and the unification of church organization in the archdiocese were two of the principal wishes which His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell saw fulfilled during the past twenty-five years.

[illegible]

No Interview

[illegible]

But after a pause he said: "Let us just hold a conversation but no interview. I dislike appearing to be dogmatic."

[illegible]

"If I have done things I am glad," declared the Cardinal breaking into the conversation.

"As a young man, I dedicated myself to the task of bringing about harmonious feeling and spreading the truth of God among our citizens as a priest.

"But the accomplishment in which I take the greatest pleasure is one which I am not myself conscious of having achieved. I have been told and by representatives of other faiths that I have done much to bring about a more harmonious feeling among those of opposite races and creeds.

"The feeling which existed between Catholics and non-Catholics in this city when I was a boy has greatly diminished.

Seeks Harmony

"As priest, bishop and Cardinal I have worked for harmony. Old differences are dead or dying fast. I have lived to see our people, and the people of other creeds come to a better understanding."

[illegible]

"All our work is now directed and carried on efficiently. Our charities, for example, no longer overlap. Our hospitals, homes, orphanages and charitable bureau carry on their work smoothly and effectively.

"I must say that some of our own people fail to recognize the great work our organizations are doing."

[illegible]

"For a long time we have felt that the spiritual welfare of blind Catholics was neglected. We have organized a group now consisting of more than [illegible] professional men and women who will [illegible] have lost their sight.

"This group, which is unofficially known as the Catholic Union for the Welfare of the Blind, will assist the blind spiritually by taking them to church, and will also try to give them some of the material comforts of life."

Carnegie Foundation Loads Pea-Gun for More Target Practice

SOME OF THE COLLEGE PRESIDENTS are hollering for outside help to [illegible] the football monster. At least Frank A. Vanderlip, in announcing that the Carnegie Foundation is fixing to fiddle with the game's giblets again at behest of the National Association of State Universities says "the college presidents have made it plain that 'the thing' is too big for them. They admit the situation is more reprehensible than ever but feel it needs outside pressure."

Austen Lake

[illegible] "guts" as the [illegible] people say, to deal with "the thing." So the Carnegie Foundation is loading its little pea-shooter and going gunning as it did in 1929 when its "bulletin 23" called football a "festering [illegible] on the skin of intellectuality."

One recalls the American Association of University Professors pattered some hand applause at the time and commended the Foundation for what it termed a "frank and daring exposure." But it tactfully dodged any recommendations as to how the report might be used to correct the evil. So after a temporary fuss, much newspaper conversation, the Carnegie report was stored in the musty archives where all such records are entombed.

[illegible] than ever.

FAULT LIES WITH HIGHER UPS

THIS SORT OF THING HAS BEEN GOING on periodically since Casper Whitney, as the first football writer to establish a national reputation was railing at the University of Chicago in Leslie's Weekly before the turn of the century. If incidents, as we are taught, tend to develop a history indicating the morals of the time and the character of the people, it would seem that current football customs are pretty much the same as when Casper Whitney's indignation disappeared in the mist of hearsay.

[illegible]

ONE SURE FIRE CURE

THERE ARE MANY COLLEGES, OF COURSE, where "the thing" is firmly chained and under control, like Tufts, Hamilton, Haverford and others. But, where there is football hypocrisy, it lies largely in the laps of the college trustees, the presidents and the posts of faculty command, who know the sure-fire cure but lack sufficient spunk to apply it.

By tearing down their concrete stadiums to the seating requirements of the student enrollment, plus a limited number of guests; by abolishing all admission charges, levying an athletic head-tax on the scholars and admitting them to games on identification cards, the mardi-gras aspects of college football would soon shrivel, turnstile profits would stop and with them the high salaried coaches, expensive equipment, big team guarantees and intersectional fanfare. Public interest would fade with the diminishing spectacle and sport page display and its glorification of adolescent youth would keep pace. Recruiting of beefy schoolboys, grandstand bottle-tippling, goal post riots and, perhaps, jobs for sport columnists, would wither away. There are no ends to the blessings.

[illegible]

WHY PRESIDENTS YELL FOR HELP

FEW COLLEGE PRESIDENTS WOULD care to pioneer with such a shotgun cure, lest enraged alumni yank them off their pedestals and cause them to be college presidents no more. They, too, have their budget bugaboos, in which the cost of running the phys-ed department is usually lifted from the academic purse by football receipts. No small item.

[illegible]

[illegible] that but in many institutions the size of the freshman class depends in some measure on the success of the varsity team and the [illegible] whom some high-spirited grad has whistled out of the woods.

That is what Frank Vanderlip meant when he said, "The college presidents have made it plain that 'the thing' is too big for them . . . and feel that it needs outside pressure." Which amounts to prescribing Swedish massage for a case of indigestion when a good dose of castor oil is indicated. [illegible]

U. S. Boxers Defeat Canada, Ireland

By JACK CONWAY

The United States won in three classes, Canada in two, while Ireland failed to triumph in a final bout at the international ring tournament staged by the Irish-American A. A. before a crowd of 9639 persons at the Garden.

The three American boys who boxed and punched their way to victories are members of the Boston Evening American-Boston Sunday Advertiser All-America team which will compete in New York on Thursday and Friday nights of this week.

Salvatore Bartolo of East Boston conquered Lou Laurie in the final of the 118-pound class.

Abe Denner of the West End tossed too much leather for John Sorenson of this city in the final of the 126-pound division.

George Martin of the South End, another All-America boxer, pounded his way to victory over William Moore of Ireland in the final of the 147-pound class.

Steve Bartollo, All America boxer, was awarded a silver cup by Senator Edward Carroll, a former amateur boxer himself, when it was voted by the sports writers at the ringside that he had shown the most class of any of the competing boxers.

SMART TIMING FOR MEETINGS

Baseball's big winds start blowing soon.

If Bob had his way the big league meetings would be open to the press. He's suggested this in both circuits. He tried to have the rule passed in the American League when he was with the Red Sox. He sought to have the National League adopt it when he was at Brooklyn. He'll undoubtedly make another try this year.

Many Chances

If we are correct in our guess, Holy Cross will again be a great football team at Fenway Park next Saturday.

There will be no let-down this week, no underestimating its biggest opponent.

Bright Spots

Best is the return of several injured veterans, Holden, Joe Vilinonsky, an outstanding fullback, Captain and Right End Bob Curley of Wakefield, Hilary Renz of New York, a hard-hitting halfback, and Joe Comm of Mamaroneck, N. Y., a fine relief quarterback.

Holy Cross Club To Entertain

Don F. O'Connor, president of the Worcester Undergraduate Club of Holy Cross College and Chairman James White have lined up a most attractive program of speakers and entertainment for the Boston College-Holy Cross smoker to be held at the Worcester K. of C. hall tomorrow evening.

It's the club's first activity of the year and it is out to make it a record breaker. To this end all Holy Cross alumni of Greater Boston and New England are cordially invited by the executive committee.

Brother Gilbert will be there, St. Anselm's, Cleo O'Donnell and Bill Summers, World Series umpire, Dr. Eddie Anderson, Jim Harris, Joe Sheckotsky and Hop Riopel, the Holy Cross coaching staff, and the players as well will be very much in the limelight.

GEORGE HOLLAND

EXCLUSIVE: SELMA [illegible] CORT, the 19-year-old Boston songbird [illegible] a show at the Club Mayfair a week ago [illegible] of a certain justice of the [illegible] will show that she [illegible] to love, cherish and honor [illegible] the radio artist, as her husband . . . He's a Springfield, Ohio youngster who is a third of the popular Curt, Dick and Glenn act on the air . . . They are madly in love, and the match will be a surprise to those of their parents—and to those among their friends who have denied the possibility it would come to pass . . . The local honeymoon nest is in the Back Bay. Three weeks hence the scene will shift to New York and perhaps Bermuda.

WHICH BRINGS UP THE SUBJECT of talent and how tardily it is recognized . . . This same young Miss Cort has one of the most remarkable rhythm senses held by any "undiscovered" singer in the country . . . If this column had the choosing to select a "swing" singer in Boston, to represent the city in a hypothetical all-Boston revue, it would go no further than the Mayfair, where Miss Cort is a perennial . . . Ranny Weeks, who would be the master of ceremonies and popular soloist of this hypothetical aggregation, couldn't be otherwise than in accord with the choice because he has gone on record as agreeing . . . Then there is a youngster named Joe Godfrey, from South Boston, and it is only coincidental that he is working currently at the Mayfair, who could uphold the reputation as a talent source for any center of tap-dancing . . . This youngster has a style of his own . . . It is not a copy of Bill LeRoy Robinson, the late Jack Donahue, [illegible] Powell, or any of the other greats among the heel [illegible] workers.

This youth has the "cleanest" taps imaginable. A homely, but attractive face, helps him . . . Then there is a trumpet-player at the Theatrical Club named Bobby Hackett, and a freak-voice at the Broadway belonging to one Bobby Pulcin, which should be good for a minute or two each of anybody's show . . .

The McNamara boys, Paul and Bobby, of Roxbury, are more juvenile dynamite, and from the studios of the Corbett Sisters and Gertrude Dolan a couple of dozen beautiful kids for the chorus work are readily recruitable . . . Larry Thornton, whose voice is light or heavy opera material, stands out as a certainty in anybody's all-Boston selection, and, for local bands, Chet Nelson's swingy orchestra at the Penthouse or George Harris's grand band or Lew Conrad's Cocoanut Grove swell current instrumentation could fill the spot in anybody's theater.

A year ago Lee Dixon accepted his weekly $100 at the Grove with thanks that his maiden aunts (the Ryan Sisters as he always "billed" them in conversation) would get their ample allowance . . . He's being featured in a new Warner Bros. picture at $750 weekly, with a contract sliding-up quickly to a very sizable sum . . . And they used to call for the waiter, sing bad harmony, quarrel among themselves and raise the usual night-club chatter when Lee was "giving" from the Grove floor a year ago.

Once Over Lightly:

"Riffin' at the Ritz" was written by Benny Goodman when he was [illegible] away some happy days last summer in what he calls his "most happy engagement" . . . The song has been published as an instrumental piece and is getting the same kind of a vogue enjoyed by "Stompin' at the Savoy" . . . The words will be put to the music next week . . . When the number takes form as something to be sung, Goodman is going to dedicate it to the Boston Ritz-Carlton and the Boston "debs" . . . Speaking of the "debs," that out-dated form of ballroom dancing—where the boy looks silly and the girl goofy—isn't being done any more even at Princeton proms . . . The New York smart spots bar it because it takes up too much floor-space, and exhibitionism gets a pay-off in the theaters in the Big City . . . It's the dance, in case you haven't been laughing with us, where the boy takes an animated conversation with his ill-at-ease partner while they stroll with an arm around one another's back pretending to be oblivious of the amused onlookers . . .

Happy Birthday:

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

The Burning Tomb

Reader's Story of Horror in Roaring Furnace on Wheels

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Here's Jack Farrell of the Bronx, N. Y., to tell us a tale and to win for himself the degree of Distinguished Adventurer. Jack is bringing us a fine description of what Hell looks like. He's been all through it, and he knows all about it.

FLOYD GIBBONS

A fellow came and pumped it right under him one day — gallons and gallons of it. And then, all of a sudden something went Whoosh! And there Jack was, right in the middle of an adventure.

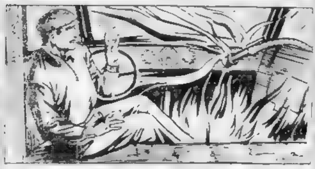
This happened on the tenth of June, 1932. Jack thought he knew all about trouble then—what with the depression in full swing, and work scarce, and a fellow always worrying where his next job and his next meal ticket was coming from. And then Old Lady Adventure came along and tapped him on the coco, and right there, Jack began wishing he had nothing worse than the depression to worry about.

Jack had been out of work two or three months when, early in June, he got a job driving a truck in Brockton. He had been working for just three days when, on the tenth, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, he drove up to a filling station to get a tankful of gas.

[illegible]

In an instant Jack [illegible] get out of that flame [illegible] A [illegible] of flames he knew was almost certain death. Frantically he tugged at the doors of the cab. The one [illegible] was stuck fast. Evidently the steel door, swollen by the heat of the fire within the car, had expanded against the jambs. [illegible] defying Jack's best efforts to open it. [illegible] Jack [illegible] before he got it open. He tried the other one. [illegible]

[illegible]



[illegible] made a dive for it. By that time his clothing had been [illegible] He could feel the flame eating its way up [illegible] He got half way through the window—and there he [illegible] He [illegible] go any farther. The window was too small.

By that time the fire had him in agony. His whole body seemed to be nothing but one great mass of throbbing, pulsating pain. Desperately he tried to wriggle out of the window—[illegible] in the truck's cab.

[illegible]

His head seemed to be spinning around in circles. Lights [illegible] before his eyes. He was going to sleep. That is, he was [illegible] he was TRYING to go to sleep. But that [illegible] there wouldn't let him.

[illegible] was reaching in and tugging him by the arm. Why [illegible] away and leave him alone? What was he doing [illegible] bothering Jack when he wanted to die? Why was he [illegible] at him and tugging at him, trying to get him to go [illegible] he didn't even WANT to go to?

[illegible] struggled and tried to pull his arm away. Then even that [illegible] too much trouble. He relaxed—let go. He was asleep.

[illegible]

[illegible] Jack [illegible] through the fire and out of the hospital. Now I'm trying to pull through what's left of the depression. That's bad enough—but I don't mind it so much any more since I've had a taste of what trouble really is like."

Well, the depression is all over, Jack—and here's ten bucks to [illegible]

[illegible]

Floyd Gibbons will pay good money for good TRUE adventure stories. Hundreds of people in Boston and nearby towns have received ten-dollar and hundred-dollar bills for their yarns, and there's no reason why you can't do the same, for, as Floyd says, everybody has had at least one adventure. Mrs. Florence Abbott of Beverly won one hundred and ten dollars for the story of her life's biggest moment and you can do the same. For further details see the box at the right side of the page.

LEWIS HANEY ON ECONOMICS

Business Activity POINTING UPWARD; News Encouraging

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, Nov. 24—Business news is mostly encouraging, and business activity in general is pointing upward. This trend seems likely to carry through the rest of the year.

In fact, a curve of the activity in representative lines of industry gives the appearance of "breaking out" of the recent period of irregularity on the up side.

* * *

One factor in this situation is the considerable dose of stimulants being administered.

Waves of government checks are going to farmers in all sections, and have recently taken effect in the Northwest.

More important than this, is the flood of bonuses paid by corporations to employes and of dividends to stockholders.

Some of this currency goes to pay debts, which relieves credit strain. Mostly it goes into spending for goods and services. I doubt that much is saved.

Another factor is the current period of political quiet—a sort of post-election breathing spell. Business leaders are adjusting themselves to the temper of the country. The New Deal leader has left the country. He has let Tugwell go.

On the whole, the situation in this respect is reassuring. No precipitate action has followed the election. The general attitude is one of readjustment of positions to actual conditions; one of which is that a 3-to-2 majority of the people voted for Roosevelt, and another of which that 17 out of 27 million voted against the New Deal.

* * *

It should now be noted that comparisons with a year ago have for some time been made with a rising trend which lasted through December, 1935. Furthermore, it should be noted that in industry and freight traffic, the normal seasonal tendency is now downward. While the new automobile season has reduced this normal tendency, it is probably still true that if the steel industry merely holds level in activity, it is in reality doing better than normal. It is really showing a tendency to rise.

* * *

This is exactly what has been going on. On the whole, the steel industry has held up better than normal for the season, and recently has registered a small gain at a time when declines are expected.

Of course, the delayed increase in automobile production is an important factor. This, however, is by no means the whole story. Railway buying of steel is gaining. All sorts of machinery is in demand. Back of all is the growing certainty of higher prices, which leads all consumers to lean toward freer buying policies.

The sharp October gain in domestic machine tool orders is significant.

Automobile production has hit its stride, and for two weeks now has run above the level of a year ago.

The textile industries are in a boom period, marked by soaring prices for goods of all sorts. Wool has now been participating for some weeks, and last week the price of fine wool at Boston rose to the 1929 level.

Although helped by some artificial conditions, railway carloadings have probably done better than seasonally. Wholesale trade has spurted. Retail trade is booming, and retail sales are probably running over 20 per cent above a year ago.

It is going to pay to shop early this year.

* * *

Any thoughtful person knows what to expect in commodity markets under the foregoing conditions. Prices are rising.

Last week all price averages neared the high of the year and some were the highest since 1930.

The rise was general. It occurred in England and France as well as in this country.

In other words, the leading currencies are depreciating. At wholesale, the dollar buys less commodities than at any time since 1930.

Under these circumstances, people are going to ask and get a larger number of dollar bills for a given amount of work. Thus, the already inflated currency of the country will become effective in inflated prices.

* * *

No one can tell when some incident may touch off a great foreign war, and this would for a time bring a serious setback; but the usual financial indicators show little alarm, and most informed opinion still holds that war is probably a year or so away.

U. S. BUSINESS

Proceeding at Fine Clip

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

New York, Nov. 24—Business in the United States is moving along at such a fine clip 1936 may go down in the records as "runner-up" to the boom year of 1929.

For example, it was estimated today by an official of the national industrial conference board that the 1936 sales of automobiles will total 4,600,000, compared with 5,622,000 for 1929. Sales this year will be approximately as high as any year with the exception of 1929.

In other lines—such as steel, railroads, construction, advertising, publishing and finance—business is also good. Stock exchange prices are up. Wages are rising. Purchasing power is broadening. Unemployment is being reduced.

How much further the recovery movement will extend it is impossible for business leaders accurately to forecast, chiefly because of political factors at present unknown. But the authoritative Standard Statistics Company, Inc., says:

"Tentatively we are of the opinion that the recovery movement now under way will carry along throughout the greater portion of 1937, and that it could readily run for several years more, barring such unexpected developments as wars, major changes in our basic system of capitalistic economy, major labor troubles, etc."

The smashing recovery in the automobile industry has had a salutory effect upon other lines, notably steel, machine tools and various metals that go into motor car manufacture.

Steel is an excellent illustration. According to the national industrial conference board the average daily production of steel ingots for the first ten months this year was 146,106 tons, as compared with 104,617 tons daily for the same period last year and 184,280 the corresponding ten months of 1929.

Freight car loadings (the average weekly total) were 688,985 for the first ten months this year; 606,756 the same period last year and 1,138,121 the first ten months of the boom year of 1929.

Building has been coming along well, too. According to the F. W. Dodge Corporation the total volume of construction of all types in 37 states during the 10 month period ended October 31 amounted to $2,267,168,100 and represents an increase of 63 per cent over the comparable figure of $1,392,293,400 for the corresponding 10 months of '35. The total for the first 10 months of 1929, however, was $5,043,410,000.

Retail sales this year are better than last. Rural retail sales for the three principal divisions are up 15 per cent, department store sales (value) up 11 per cent.

THREE Join Gold PACT

DUTCH, SWISS, BELGIANS IN

By CECIL B. DICKSON

Washington, Nov. 24 (US)—In the third major step toward international monetary stabilization within 60 days, the governments of Holland, Belgium and Switzerland have been granted full reciprocal gold exchange privileges with the United States, England and France.

This action was announced simultaneously in Washington, London and Paris following formal notification that the three former gold bloc nations had adhered to the tri-power currency and gold pacts consummated on September 26 and October 13, respectively.

Designed to promote a flow of gold between all six nations, the action also definitely removes from the hands of private bankers the power to initiate gold movements in and out of the United States.

Blocks Money War

In addition, it binds the six nations against participating or initiating a currency devaluation war, although the entire agreement may be thrown overboard upon 24 hours' notice.

Secretary Morgenthau announced that the move was not aimed to either discourage or stimulate an inward flow of gold into this country but would have the effect of speeding the exchange of capital between the six nations as well as trade. He said:

"We welcome these countries into the tri-partite pact. We invite others to join. Under present world conditions we believe this is the best way to protect our external and internal economy."

Although Holland, Belgium and Switzerland may buy or sell gold at $35 an ounce, plus handling charges, Morgenthau explained that the United States, England and France would continue to control the policy under the original tri-power pact.

Agents for Belgium

Morgenthau revealed that under the new arrangement the United States had to allow the fiscal agents to handle all transactions for Belgium, since that government has no stabilization fund for such operation.

Under the original tri-partite agreement, gold was exchanged only through stabilization funds of the different governments.

Morgenthau also rescinded the rule set up Jan. 31, 1934, in which the United States would sell gold to banks for export to foreign central banks.

Morgenthau said President Roosevelt had approved the new move before his departure for South America.

The treasury's mid-winter financing operation will be announced December 7, Morgenthau said.

The treasury plans to pay off 400 millions in maturing bills, refinance 358 millions December 15 notes and 429 millions February 15 notes for a total of 1187 millions.

Morgenthau withheld the amount of new borrowing but said the December 15 operation would be the last until March 15, 1937.

TRADE Pace STEADY

ADJUSTING ITSELF

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Copyright, 1936, Universal Service.

New York, Nov. 24—Business has proceeded calmly on the level already established, while popular attention was focussed on pyrotechnics incidental to the effort of managing directors of corporations to adjust themselves to political, labor union and taxation trends.

Under the stimulus of the new punitive undivided profits tax, corporations continued to increase the ratio of total current profits paid out in the form of dividends to shareholders.

The effect of the new tax was to put the Federal Government in the position of going joint account with the corporations themselves in bearing the cost of melon cutting. Stockholders enjoyed the extra distributions, few weighing the fundamental fact that the new fashion was weakening the constructive habit of corporation saving.

Tax factors also were an added inducement for paying out a larger share of gross receipts to build up good will with employes through wage increases and with customers through added advertising appropriations.

Prudent stockholders, instead of regarding increased cash dividends as mere windfall profits, will recognize that in part they represent earnings, which would have been applied to their capital account through corporate saving, thus increasing the asset value behind their investments. As individuals they cannot rewrite the tax laws, but, if they want to look beneath the surface, they will recognize the wisdom of reinvesting the excess dividend income.

Up to this juncture the visible effects of the new custom of putting funds into circulation have been favorable. Business and employment are still abnormal, and the result of the melons will be a stimulus to recovery. On the other hand, at the crest of a boom, continuance of the policy will tend to over-accentuate prevailing excesses—and also to leave employers less prepared with reserves against future contingencies.

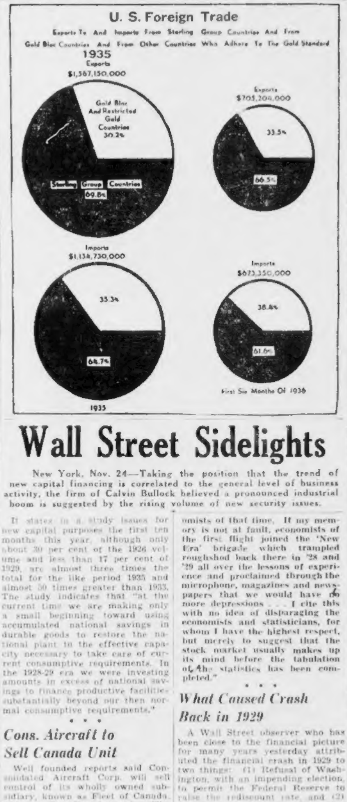
It should not be overlooked, too, that corporate savings have provided a principal reservoir for financing plant extension, and the development of new and more efficient tools of production, which constituted an important basis for the gradual improvement in popular living standards.

In the interests of a smooth-functioning balanced internal economy, it is good to view increasing signs of a determination of government and organized business to work hand in hand in the re-employment movement. On the other hand, warfare or sabotage between the groups would create economic friction, which could be measured in reduced manhours of employment.

FOREIGN TRADE

WITH U. S.

Namely in Sterling Area



This chart shows our trade in 1935 with countries in the various currency "blocs," namely, sterling-area, the gold bloc and that group of European countries which, nominally attached to gold, are hedged about with numerous exchange restrictions and tariff barriers.

The chart is especially interesting because all the groupings of nations, as roughly outlined above, are undergoing a shift.

The so-called gold bloc is now dissolved, with France, Holland, Switzerland and Italy and their colonies suspending the gold standard.

A shift in some of the adherents of certain groups has ensued, such as Turkey, which has already aligned its currency to the pound sterling.

Brazil on the other hand, has signified its intention to quit the sterling group and tie its currency to the dollar.

As shown in the chart, sterling is the primary medium of settlement of international payments.

Nearly 70 per cent of the value of our exports went to the sterling group of countries in 1935, while 65 per cent of our imports came from these nations.

Important monetary transitions are under way and international trade changes will undoubtedly take place. Invariably sudden currency realignments bring in their wake readjustments of tariff regulations quotas and prohibitions. France, for instance, is placing into effect a lower schedule of duties. Italy contemplates similar action.

Wall Street Sidelights

New York, Nov. 24—Taking the position that the trend of new capital financing is correlated to the general level of business activity, the firm of Calvin Bullock believed a pronounced industrial boom is suggested by the rising volume of new security issues.

It states in a study issues for new capital purposes the first ten months this year, although only about 30 per cent of the 1926 volume and less than 17 per cent of 1929, are almost three times the total for the like period 1935 and almost 50 times greater than 1933. The study indicates that "at the current time we are making only a small beginning toward using accumulated national savings in durable goods to restore the national plant to the effective capacity necessary to take care of current consumptive requirements. In the 1928-29 era we were investing amounts in excess of national savings to finance productive facilities substantially beyond our then normal consumptive requirements."

Cons. Aircraft to Sell Canada Unit

Well founded reports said Consolidated Aircraft Corp. will sell control of its wholly owned subsidiary, known as Fleet of Canada, Ltd., to Canadian interests. The name of the unit is to be changed to Fleet Aircraft, Ltd. Full details of the transaction have not been completed, but it is said the move is designed to enable the Canadian subsidiary to obtain more business from the British Air Ministry. The reason for this is reported to be reluctance of the English authorities to purchase planes from companies not dominated by British or Canadian capital.

Customers' Men and Economists

Discussing "fair weather" customers' men of the balmy days of 1928 and 1929, Maurice L. Farrell, chairman of the committee on public relations of the New York Stock Exchange, took a dig at "economists." Of the "boom-time" customers' men, Farrell said:

"They knew little about securities and less about statistics and economics. But I might add that they proved just about as helpful as many of our best known economists of that time. If my memory is not at fault, economists of the first flight joined the 'New Era' brigade which trampled roughshod back there in '28 and '29 all over the lessons of experience and proclaimed through the microphone, magazines and newspapers that we would have no more depressions . . . I cite this with no idea of disparaging the economists and statisticians, for whom I have the highest respect, but merely to suggest that the stock market usually makes up its mind before the tabulation of the statistics has been completed."

What Caused Crash Back in 1929

A Wall Street observer who has been close to the financial picture for many years yesterday attributed the financial crash in 1929 to two things: (1) Refusal of Washington, with an impending election, to permit the Federal Reserve to raise the rediscount rate, and (2) the presence of the capital gains tax, which discouraged investors and speculators with huge paper profits from selling their holdings and taking their profits.

CARNEGIE Raising Steel Prices

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation announced that prices of semi-finished and finished products will be advanced $2 to 4 a ton, effective December , on all sales for shipment in the first quarter of next year. Other companies are expected to follow.

Although the increased prices go a long way toward offsetting the recent wage rise and higher raw materials costs it is difficult to foretell how soon the industry will benefit.

Extra Dividend

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents on the common, payable December 24 to stock of record December 5.

REMINGTON To Pay Dividends

New York, Nov. 24 (INS)—Remington Rand Company today declared a regular quarterly dividend on the company's common stock of 15 cents in cash and one per cent in common stock and also declared a dividend of $1.12 on the new $4.50 preferred issue.

Both dividends are payable January 1, 1937, on the stockholders' record of December 10, 1936.

Officials state that the company's production is currently running 25 per cent ahead of last year's output.

FORBES SAYS

Perilous TO DISCOURAGE Thrift

By B. C. FORBES

Every rational person prefers plenty to poverty. From the earliest days, saving has been rated a virtue, over-spending condemnable.

Material progress, the advancement of civilization, the production of greater quantities of the necessities and comforts of life all stem from saving, from not spending every penny of income for gratification of immediate desires, from making savings available for constructive purposes in return for wages, income on the funds thus rented to others.

The Bible well says, "the borrower shall be servant to the lender."

Copybook maxims, proverbs, adages galore, exhort and extol living within one's means, accumulating a nest-egg against rainy days, striving to achieve financial independence, etc.

Few sane persons would challenge the wisdom of such admonitions.

* * *

Yet, the whole trend, particularly in modern times, has been toward "soaking" the thrifty, toward taking from those who have proved prudent, in order to hand it over to those who have not saved, toward treating borrowers far more considerately than lenders.

Consider what has happened in Russia. Consider what has happened in Germany. Consider what is happening in Italy. Consider events in France. Consider developments in Mexico.

Even in Britain, particularly since the World War, the trend toward taking from those who have, to reward those who don't have—the massacre of fortunes, big estates etc.—has been beyond all comprehension here.

* * *

And what of our own country?

Practically all legislation of late has been in the direction of punishing creditors, helping debtors, of penalizing those who saved in order to favor those who didn't save.

Huey Long's "share-the-wealth" proposal was instigated by this well nigh universal movement. So was Dr. Townsend's $200-a-month pension plan for all over 65. So are all similar agitations.

Is it right that saving be discouraged?

What would happen to our own country should everybody cease to practice self-denial, cease to accumulate anything for investment?

As I see it, the consequences would be catastrophic.

Various companies have recently compiled figures showing how much capital has had to be supplied to make the creation of a job possible.

The amount commonly ranges from $5000 to $8000 or more. The Ford average has been $9007.37.

Is it not time for us to consider how far we should go in encouraging this "soaking" process?

Obviously, were no savings, no capital to be available to provide additional jobs in future, America would inevitably lose her world leadership in industry, in employment, in wealth, in living conditions.

* * *

It is not the purpose here to argue whether the trend has gone either too far or not far enough, but to encourage the people of this country to ponder this most vital, fundamental question, in order that sound conclusions may be reached, sound policies formulated and followed.

That there has arisen need for devoting greater attention to those occupying the lowest levels on the social, economic scale, is generally admitted. The objective now sought to be attained is unqualifiedly laudable.

But, in seeking a solution, vigilant care must be exercised to prevent embarking upon a course of action which would by and by lead to disastrous results for the whole nation.

In this work-a-day world, the cost must always be counted. Ways and means must always be practicable, workable, maintainable.

If not, every class would ultimately suffer; those intended to be benefited would suffer most of all.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET TRANSACTIONS

WOOL MARKETS

Big Seller CALLS PRICES Too High

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The National Wool Marketing Corp. tossed something resembling a bomb-shell into the Boston market with the announcement is was freely offering all grades of wool.

Coming so close on the heels of recent upward price revisions in fabrics, some observers are wondering just what the effect will be. However, while we can only read between the lines of the statement, the market does not seem to be in immediate danger.

We believe this because the avowed objective of the corporation was the attainment of price parity with imports and now that it has been reached it does not seem logical for a selling move that will return them to lower levels. At the same time a further boom in domestic wool prices will now have to contend with competition in the form of lower priced imports, even allowing for duties. It seems almost too good to be true, but the chances really appear to be favoring fairly stable price levels.

* * *

From a strictly news angle the market is having its troubles. European political developments have not been of a character designed to calm nerves frayed by repeated warnings regarding domestic speculation, and the flood of good news in the form of earnings, extra dividends and bonuses plainly seems to have entered the climax period. As for the weakness of European markets, particularly London, we think the prolonged rise placed them in just as vulnerable a position as our own. Speculators the world over are not much different and it would be surprising indeed if prices there had not been pushed too far and too fast. The Spanish news simply caught them in an uncertain position following a lengthy upswing. We say this for the reason reliable cables indicate that in London responsible quarters consider fears of trouble arising out of the revolution in Spain are exaggerated.

Notebook: New York Central bulls are looking past this year's results to 1937 . . . Then they believe many good things will come their way . . . First they see a still larger part of gross carried through to net—this year promises to be most satisfactory—boosting per share earnings on the common . . . Then of course they expect liberal dividend treatment from the company . . . Especially if the ICC grants some rate increases to offset surcharge eliminations . . . Besides the rumors of a recapitalization plan U. S. Rubber is currently benefiting from a widening belief in financial circles that duPont management principles are now bearing fruit.

* * *

The stock market moved down through the well defined resistance levels noted here for the last ten days. This was followed today by a smart rally from the opening gong today which we are now gazing on with suspicion. It is too good to be true. And after the rise of recent months it seems logical to expect something more in the line of a correction than that witnessed to date. Particularly after the fracture of importance support areas. Accordingly we will adopt a policy of selling on rallies until further notice. A 50 per cent liquid position is advised for investors who keep a part of their funds in equities.

Here and There: American Car & Foundry is expected to obtain some subway car business in 1937 . . . . The company has not had an order in this line for over a year . . . Which will help to bulward the rising tide of railway orders anticipated . . . Wayne Pump earnings for the full year are expected to be around $3.75 pershare of common . . . Youngstown Sheet & Hube is likely to head the steel class with something in the vicinity of $7.50 per share earned . . . Spicer comes close to tapping the medium price class with income estimated at better than $4 per share.

Court Refuses to Halt "Pick-Up" By Rails

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—A three-judge federal court refused today to stop six major railroads and two steamship companies from operating "pick-up and delivery" service.

In so doing the court upheld the right of the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve rates covering such service without first issuing a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

The ruling was made on a petition by the Amerian Trocking Association, Inc., for injunction against the eight carriers prohibiting a minimum charge of 45 cents per hundred pounds for the service with rebates in certain cases.

The pickup and delivery rates, effective November 16, applied to the so-called "official territory," whichembrace a the area east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio river and the main line of the Norfolk & Western railway.

Defendants in the case were the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, New York, New Haven & Hartford, Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western Railroads and the Eastern Steamship lines and Clyde Mallory lines.

Index at Peak

The weekly wholesale commodity price index compiled by the National Fertilizer Association again advanced to a new high point for the recovery period in the week ended November 21. This index last week was 81, based on the 1926-28 average as 100, against 80.6 in the preceding week, 79.9 a month ago and 79 a year ago.

$1.25 Epecial Dividend

Directors of United Fruit Company declared a special dividend of $1.25 a share, payable December 21, to stock of record December 3. Regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share was also declared, payable January 15 to stock of record December 21.

Republic Steel

Republic Steel Corporation declared a dividend in arrears of $12 on the 6 per cent preferred stock, payable December 19 to stock of record December 9. This is the first payment on this stock since December, 1930. Regular quarterly of $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred "A" was also declared, payable the same dates.

Old Colony Trustees

Washington, Nov. 24 (INS)—The ICC today ratified appointments of Howard S. Palmer, W. M. Daniels and James Lee Loomis as trustees of the property of the Old Colony Railroad, a subsidiary of the New Haven system.

Stocks HOLD Gains

New York, Nov. 24—Business hopes took precedence over foreign worries today and the stock market got back to the buying track for gains of fractions to 2 or more points.

Best recovery levels were reached at the fast opening. The activity slowed appreciably after the first few minutes but leading issues near the fourth hour held the greater part of their initial advances.

Most brokerage analysts felt the market had been oversold in the preceding session and expressed the opinion at least a moderate rally was in the cards.

Bonds generally pointed higher, while commodities were mixed.

Foreign currencies were lower in terms of the dollar as buying of American securities was reported from transatlantic sources.

Prominent on the comeback were shares of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, Republic Steel, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Macy, Safeway Stores, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, United Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright "A", American Telephone, Western Union, International Paper & Power preferred, Shell Union Oil, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Goodyear, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Fajardo Sugar, National Biscuit and Cuban-American Sugar.

The majority of the coppers, oils and utilities were unable to get very far out in front.

Loew's pushed up 2 or so at the best on disclosure of the largest 12-months profits since 1931. On the other hand RKO yielded about a point following filing of the company's reorganization plan.

Timely Topics

Brokers said the foreign situation was still a disturbing market influence. At the same time domestic business news continued encouraging.

The general boost in steel prices announced for the first quarter of next year was not surprising to the financial sector in view of widespread wage increases and higher operating costs to which the major companies will be subjected.

Merchandising shares again came in for study as holiday spending forecasts were revised upward. Retail volumes in the past two weeks were estimated at more than 20 per cent above the corresponding 1935 period, with consumer purchasing in rural districts especially heavy.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions the French franc was up .00⅛ of a cent at 4.66¼ cents, and sterling was 1-16 of a cent lower at $4.90.

The American System Proves Its Merit

THE ATTITUDE of world opinion toward America since our recent election resembles that of a small boy who has seen a match touched to a firecracker and has waited in vain at a safe distance for the explosion.

The world does not understand America.

It does not understand the American system.

We had a bitter campaign.

We argued the issues of the moment with heat.

Our people went to the polls to decide between two groups of leaders, apparently as irreconcilable as men in conflict could possibly be.

World opinion did not expect the election to end that argument.

It anticipated a dangerous situation in America, with a powerful losing faction angrily resentful of the verdict.

That did not happen.

With election over, the American people settled back to their normal pursuits.

There was no questioning of the result.

Once known, the verdict was accepted by the opponents of the winning administration with sincere pledges of support for the kind of government the people had decided they wanted to have.

THAT IS THE AMERICAN SYSTEM. There is nothing like it anywhere else in the world.

PROOF abounds in the situation that Americans are still running their affairs IN THE AMERICAN WAY.

The people of the United States have not imported any alien theories about securing a free expression of the popular will in America.

AND THEY SEE NO NEED OF IMPORTING ALIEN IDEAS.

It is the American way to put the decision up to the people, and TO ABIDE BY THEIR DECISION.

Our acceptance of the result of the election so recently held is complete fulfillment of the American way.

Our government has the united support of our people, in as full a measure as if there had been no division of opinion in the campaign.

That fact is beyond the comprehension of observers in other countries.

They see nearly twenty million Americans powerfully organized as dissenters from the policies approved by nearly thirty millions.

That would mean continuing trouble in any country but the United States.

But America is not thus divided.

Our people are backing their government today, without regard to how they voted.

Mr. Roosevelt is the President of ALL AMERICANS, not by any rule of force, but by their proud acknowledgment.

THERE IS NOTHING LIKE THIS CONDITION ANYWHERE ELSE IN THE WORLD.

HOW are we enabled to govern ourselves in this remarkable and sensible manner?

A wondering world asks the question.

Intelligent Americans give this answer:

It is because the people of the United States are still shaping their mind and running their government according to the principles of enlightened democracy upon which America was founded.

Americans have once again upheld the American system, determined that it shall NEVER BE IMPAIRED and that the benefits accruing from it shall NEVER BE DENIED to future generations of Americans.

The Age of Usefulness

THE DANGER of an industrial program that does not utilize the services of citizens beyond the age of 45 was called to the attention of the conference of mayors by Works Progress Administrator Hopkins.

The interest of Mr. Hopkins in this program is largely that of an official whose responsibility it is to find work for unemployed people.

But the problem is deeper than that. The nation cannot adopt a policy of refusing employment to workers who have reached the age of 45 without being guilty of a tremendous and inexcusable waste of manpower.

It is economic stupidity to suggest that the period of human usefulness is arbitrarily bounded by a fixed age. To set the boundary at 45 years is to completely discount the basic values of experience, of training and of technical and mental equipment every man acquires in the course of a productive life.

MIDDLE years of a man's life mark the beginning of his real usefulness, to society and to himself. His early years are his apprenticeship.

His career is a structure upon which he labors diligently, becoming proficient in the work he is trying to do, suiting to his own purpose the accumulated knowledge of those who have gone before him in the same field.

He learns to do well the thing he expects to do, by doing it many times, perhaps by failing often; but always by profiting by what his own mistakes teach him and by the increasing confidence the knowledge of his expanding competence gives him.

ENDING a life at 45 is like boarding up the doors and windows of a great edifice before it has ever been used. It would be senseless to spend years building a costly temple, to devote the genius of artists and scientists to its conception and the labor of artisans to its completion, and then to drive the people from its doors just when it is ready to be of service to them.

It is just as senseless to close the door of useful employment to a man who has erected the edifice of his life upon years of experience.

The world's best work has always been done by men who have come far along the road of life, learning to do good work. Men who are credited with achievements in business, the arts and sciences, must build up the ability to do these things before they can do them.

Men of experience are valuable men.

AMERICA cannot be so inconceivably stupid as to throw away all the years of technical training and profitable experience an intelligent citizen brings to the threshold of 45.

President Roosevelt, recognizing the evil of this trend so clearly that he made reference to it in his message before sailing for South America, said:

"Leaders of business must recognize the consequences of this hiring age policy—it condemns many in this group of workers to permanent unemployment."

Students to See Inaugural

THE Roosevelt Inauguration Tour Competition, sponsored by the Boston Evening American, should interest every high school student in Massachusetts.

It provides an opportunity for twenty girls and boys to see President Roosevelt inducted into his second term of office in one of the most impressive pageants in American history.

It also provides an opportunity for principals and teachers to promote interest in our government by directing their pupils' attention to the ten important questions that will be asked.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

What do most of the folks you know want to get out of life? That's easy to answer . . . comfort, pleasure, safety. Enough fun to make them happy . . . enough money to keep them from being bothered . . . no sorrow or trouble or dangerous risk. Now and then some ambitious man wants to burn up the road, but most of us just want to sit pretty and take things easily.

Elsie Robinson

Yet ease and safety are actually the worst things that can happen to us.

Havelock Ellis once said:

"If we want to live in any true sense at all we are compelled to live dangerously."

That's the deepest truth—the oldest law—in life.

Danger? Most of us think of it as disaster. Have you ever thought of danger as an OPPORTUNITY . . . A DOOR INTO A LARGER LIFE?

Instinctively we dodge danger as something abnormal, something that menaces life and which should be avoided. BUT DANGER SERVES LIFE. Danger is as normal and necessary an accompaniment of growth as air and water and food. GROWTH CAN'T COME WITHOUT DANGER.

DANGER INVIGORATES

That has been true of every form of life, clear back to the first pollywog in the primeval ooze. Those that live BIG had to LIVE HARD. Those that got anywhere had to disregard comfort and caution and TAKE RISKS. PERIL IS THE PRICE OF EVOLUTION.

We'd still be wiggling around in slime if certain adventurous creatures hadn't ventured to poke out their noses and sniff air.

Pollywogs in primeval puddles, pioneers on the plains . . . the same law held for all. Those who lived greatly lived dangerously. That law holds for you today.

You, today, can live BIG or LITTLE, just as you choose. It may not be your lot to discover new continents, release electricity, reform a nation or die on a martyr's cross. But you can, within the scope of your own nature, do things quite as amazing. You, too, may be an adventurer . . . an inventor . . . a crusader . . . a poet . . . a conqueror. BUT TO DO SO YOU MUST LIVE DANGEROUSLY.

SCORN PERILS

You must dare new ideas, as Hannibal dared the Alps. You must scorn discomforts and diversions, as Edison scorned them . . . as all great workers have scorned them. You must face loneliness and misunderstanding and humiliation as Lincoln faced them . . . For these are the dangers and trials that beset all advance. IF YOU EXPECT TO GO ON, you must pay your way!

And in return, what'll you get?

"I can't hope for fame and glory like Lincoln and Edison," you say. "I'm just a plain worker that nobody knows. What is there in it for me if I live life dangerously?"

PLENTY! There's pride in it, for you. And the sense of power, rising in you like a tide. And sometimes peace, and, once in a great while, a stirring glimpse of beauty.

That's worth risking any danger.

On Parole! -:- -:-

New York Day by Day -:- By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Nov. 24—Lowell Thomas continues to be New York's No. 1 Human Dynamo. And manages to keep in top form to boot. He is an accomplished horseman and boxer, being a pupil of the same instructor that started Jack Dempsey off on the road to the championship.

O. O. McIntyre

Thomas, a native of Cripple Creek, is a product of the Denver brand of journalism that marked so many stars. He was contemporaneous with Runyon. Today he is one of the better known figures in the field of radio and news reels. And among the few who never hired a press agent.

Two nights a week he works from 10 p. m. until dawn recording for news pictures. But every morning he is at his office at 9. Until recently he delivered an average of three lectures a week aside from daily broadcast of current events. His income is said to be $7000 a week.

Thomas lives at Pawling in the famous Duchess county. During the summer season he broadcasts from there. On top of all these activities he manages to turn out two books a year—a fat job in itself. He has authored some 50 volumes, mostly about his travels.

I notice the gorgeous heavy Renaissance Stanford White Red Room at the Imperial—once the late afternoon roundup of Irvin Cobb, Bozeman Bulger and other mint julep lovers from Kentucky, is being made into the more modern cocktail room. There's a painting there I've coveted, a cavalier whose horse is entirely composed of those scrolls like a Spencerian swan, only artfully elaborate and technical. Spanish school. One of the many that used to decorate the walls of the lower Broadway tavern. The rest are probably now stored in the Goelet garrets.

When Gertrude Stein ended her long self-exile in Paris for a visit to New York last Spring she appeared as the guest of honor at a Dutch Treat luncheon. She observed that one of the attractions of America to her was the cartooning art of H. T. Webster and that she had come to America with a yearn to see him. She did not know it but he was at one of the tables—the perfect Casper Milquetoast, blushing like anything.

In a Radio City spire is a "Pajama Parlor." An enterprise that creates something totsy in night habiliments and caters only to the male. All especially tailored, sedate or flamboyant and extravagantly monogrammed. From $18 to $75. One even goes for a fitting before delivery. The patronage I am told is largely among the movie and stage folks and the Long Island swells.

New York's major jewelry establishments never had a notable hold-up. Even the most expert bandits realize such an undertaking would be their professional Waterloo. They wouldn't have a Chinaman's chance. In a lightning flash hidden all-seeing guards can lock all exits automatically, have the riot squads on the way and their own machine guns in action from ambuscade. It would be over in five minutes—the culprits being either corpses or shackled prisoners.

I have a critical and appreciated friend who wants to start a League Against the Wrong Use of Only. A grammarian, he says it is the outstanding misplacement of established writers. He even found it in the Atlantic Monthly and two of the most widely circulated weeklies recently contained these: "I only bid two spades," "I was only there two days."

I'm slinking about the house today, bowing and scraping to everybody, trying to look sad and forlorn and otherwise suffering the anguish of one making a fool of himself.

It began when I found a touseled morning paper on the breakfast table. I put on a honey of a tantrum until calmly told in a cool voice it was yesterday's paper and today's editions were untouched in the entrance hall. All the time it is something or other, all the time it is.

Today's Text: "I will keep the law continually, and I will walk at liberty."—Psalm 44:45.

Gas Versus Bullets

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Periodically in Tokio the entire population takes part in a gas attack drill. Business closes down, warning sirens screech, everyone puts on his gas mask, and ambulances and first aid squads go about ministering to the mock victims of an enemy attack.

Edwin C. Hill

On a much smaller scale, Paris has similar drills, and its citizens have been educated to the use of the miles of underground passages in the city in the event of an hostile air or gas raid.

The defense authorities of England are conducting a like preparedness campaign for the civilian population, to keep pace with the actual military expansion which the government is carrying on. Noncombatants have a terrible dread of gas, and even professional military men in the recent past have denounced its use as inhumane and have sought to have it outlawed. Now two officers of the United States Army speak out in defense of the use of gas as against the use of shot and shell.

"Popular beliefs concerning the terrible and devastating effects of chemical agents," they say, "are grossly exaggerated. Those who speak or write of the terrifying and horrible results of chemical warfare do not know what they are talking about."

The two officers are Colonel Gibson of the Chemical Warfare Service and Major Samuel A. White of the Army Medical Corps. Colonel Gibson points out that in the World War only two per cent of the gas casualties resulted in deaths, whereas the total of battle casualties was 24 per cent.

MORE HUMANE?

The poison gases do not mutilate. They seldom cause extreme pain and they result in death only in the small proportion stated above in comparison to the number of deaths by other weapons.

It would seem from what these officers say that familiarity with powder and bullets has brought a certain contempt for them, or, at least, a certain fatalism concerning their use in warfare. For centuries men have been using firearms to kill each other off, and as a result they have become the accepted method of operation. This was not always so. Up until the time that the Chinese invention of the thing called gunpowder found its way eastward into Europe, war was made by clubs, spears, knives, swords and bow and arrow.

The first wave of gas coming from the German lines into the unprepared ranks of the British in Northern France caused the same surprise and consternation as did the rifle and ball to the American Indian. We doubly dread the unknown and the unexpected.

GENERALLY CONDEMNED

Thus, the use of chemicals in warfare was condemned from the start before we stopped to consider the possibilities of defense against them and to weigh their effects against the use of the weapons with which we were familiar.

"The severity of the chemical weapon," says Colonel Gibson, "can be altered to suit the occasion. The time will come when troops or police that fire upon a mob will be severely criticized for not using milder measures, such as gas.

"Also, the time will come when a civilized nation will be considered barbarous if its army uses rifle, machine guns and explosives against the army of a less civilized nation that could be controlled with gas.

"Why kill if the total rout of the opposing force can be assured by the use of harmless measures? To kill, even in warfare, without necessity, is murder."

An interesting statement is Colonel Gibson's in view of all the warfare around us and all the preparation for future wars going on in Europe today. There is little question that another world war fought on the scale of the last one would about end European civilization.

Maybe science, through chemical warfare, is to save man from himself. It may be guns and not gases that should be outlawed, and that man, if he must fight, will have to fight with chemicals and thus live to fight another day.

That's That -:- By Bruce Gustin

In a letter to 4000 employes, formally advising them that a sit-down strike had forced the company to close its plant at South Bend, Indiana, Vice-President Mahoney of the Bendix Products Corporation said:

"This is no fault of yours and certainly no fault of ours. You are losing wages every hour simply because a small group of inconsiderate workers refused to work when they entered the plant. Naturally that stopped everybody else from working."

It will be interesting to observe the reactions of thousands of employes, who want to work, when they find they have been deprived of their jobs because a few hundred do not want to work.

Major Berry, co-ordinator for industrial co-operation, told delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention at Tampa, Fla., that business is showing a more co-operative spirit toward the administration, but the great question now is the attitude of the Supreme Court. He said he feels "the court will adjust itself to the mandate of the people at the polls."

No one knows what mandate, if any, was given by the majority of the voters. Major Berry thinks the voters registered a "determination that Liberalism shall be maintained in the United States." But there are many opinions about what constitutes Liberalism. Certainly, President Roosevelt did not assert or even hint in any campaign speech that he intends to do or wants to do anything he knows will violate the Constitution. He did not suggest that his re-election should be considered a mandate to the Supreme Court to change its interpretation of the Constitution.

There is only one safe and proper way to change the Constitution. That is by amendment in the manner prescribed in the Constitution. So many widely separated and conflicting issues are involved in a Presidental election that no one can say positively which ones were approved and which were rejected. When a Constitutional amendment is submitted, there can be no uncertainty about the verdict which is returned.

Russia is getting even with Germany for the reported secret pact between Germany and Japan. Detailed charges have been announced against 23 German citizens who have been arrested in Russia. They are accused of spreading Nazi-Fascist propaganda. Conspiring against the government by advocating some other political doctrine is a serious offense in Russia. Soviet leaders, however, think it is all right for Russian propagandists to plot the overthrow of government in other countries.
